JOHNSON IGNORES VITAL ISSUES; MUTE ON CHARGES OF HEARST AFFILIATION

Talks of Four-Power Pact, Which He Declares Is a Dead Issue; Refers to Same "Old Gang"; Fails to Explain Ethical Viewpoints

CROWDED HIGH SCHOOL LISTENS IN VAIN

Determination Not to Discuss Subjects Touching His Employment in East Is Foreshadowed by Avoidance and Reliance Upon Pathetic Appeals

About 700 people of Glendale and vicinity gathered at the high school last night to hear Senator Johnson explain, if he could, some of the grave accusations against him, to give his side of his relations with William R. Hearst, on his conception of his ethical duties as a Republican senator, aligning, as the paid attorney of the Democratic forces of New York, and with Hearst in the International News fight.

They waited for an hour, through rare, sidestepping eloquence of the distinguished son of California, for something to which they could cling in old time loyalty.

They applauded declarations he made as a matter of course, but the big hope that he would explain to the people of Glendale, the reason of his defection from party ranks and his alignment with Hearst was defeated. Had he referred in anyway to the issues—the big issue that was presented to him—they would have been satisfied.

He did not deny receiving $10,000 from Hearst while United States Senator for the republicans of California, nor why he had once excorciated him as an "assassin of character," then embraced him as an employer with a fat fee.

He did not deny that he had taken $25,000 while republican senator from California to defend Hearst's political and Tammany's pet leader in New York.

He did not say whether he was within his rights to use the power of position conferred in trust upon him by his loyal supporters for personal benefit through service to democratic rings.

He did not say that he considered he had no obligations to his party in California to spend his whole time while senate is in session in the service of government. He did not say he had not violated that obligation.

He did not say he had not taken other fees.

He did not explain why the Hearst papers were supporting his candidacy in the republican ranks.

He did not say when he found Hearst had ceased to be "an assassin of character." He did not explain how he could ask the people of California to return a Hearst candidate to congress as a republican—when they would not elect Hearst himself as either a democrat or a republican.

He did not explain the difference between Joe Bailey of Texas taking fees from the Standard Oil, for which act Hearst had driven Bailey from politics, and himself, taking fees from Hearst himself.

While Mr. Johnson won frequent applause by virtue of his eloquence, his avoidance of any of the subjects before republicans of the state was painfully apparent.

Instead of discussing his personal integrity as a republican senator, he stood on the defensive for the Four-Power pact, and clung to his pitiful "same old gang" vague illusion. He did not explain how it came that so many of the "old gang" were back on his own candidacy.

A report of Mr. Johnson's meeting will be found on another page.

PICNIC BRIDAL IS SOUGHT BY CREDIT ASSOCIATION

All Sorts of Contributions Offered for Couple Who Will Perform

WANTED—One Prospective bride and groom.

Secretary Frank Pilling of the Glendale Credit association, has sent out an S. O. S. He has promised the people of Glendale that a real, honest-to-goodness-hope-to-stick wedding will be staged on the grounds the day the association holds its picnic.

All that is needed to make the promise good is a prospective bride and groom.

"The shortage in the crop of August brides and grooms is appalling," said Mr. Pilling today. Mr. Pilling and the entertainment committee of the association are conducting an intensive search for a couple that is willing to make the leap before the crowd on that day.

Every prospect, so far, has gone dead, right after being asked to perform at the picnic. Some of the men have said they were willing to be married at the picnic, but they did not know who to marry. Others have signified their willingness to have the knot tied before the crowds. They were barred because they are already married and two marriages are not being encouraged this year.

Mr. Pilling is sending out an S. O. S. If this item is read by a young man or woman contemplating a leap into the sea of matrimony it would be advisable for them to see the secretary of the credit association at once. Mr. Pilling said that contributions will be made that will make it well worth the while of the couple to be married.

Astrology Is Not a Science According to Henry James

Astrology never was a science, says Henry James in his comment on the news. He finds a writer who has been describing the influence of the heavenly bodies upon the authors of recent particularly heinous crimes. While Mr. James says it is hardly necessary to state to intelligent people that no such influence as this exists, he nevertheless devotes some inches of space to a discussion of the matter, winding up with the statement that the indictment of the moon, Jupiter and Saturn ought to be demanded forthwith and their expulsion from the azure canopy demanded.

James W. Foley says in "The Listening Post" that there is only one proper way to get your bread and butter, and that is to earn it. He says you don't know what there is in the world for you until you have put your best self into jour job.

Dr. Frank Crane has another article on democracy, and all the other regular features will be found in their places as well as a column of very able editorial matter.

EXCHANGE CLUB IS TO GIVE PICNIC SEPTEMBER 9

New Park Is Secured for Day's Outing in Canyon

Plans were announced yesterday at the noon meeting of the Glendale National Exchange club at the Broadway inn, for a Glendale picnic to be held in the new city park in Verdugo Woodlands on Admission day, September 9. Geo. Whitaker, chairman of the entertainment committee reported that he had arranged with Mayor Spencer Robinson for the use of the park on that day. He said that all clubs and organizations in the city would be invited to take part in the affair and make it a "real, honest to-goodness Glendale day."

Ed Radke, chairman of the park committee, reported that the Patterson park swimming pool has been completed and is being enjoyed by everyone. The only criticism that he made of the park was the fact that the dressing rooms were too small. Councilman C. E. Kimlin, who was present at the meeting of the club said that this matter is being taken care of at present by the city authorities.

Dr. Henry Harrower, chairman of the civics committee, reported that progress is being made in the securing of sufficient funds to guarantee the necessary bonus required by the Salt Lake railroad for the electrification of Glendale avenue. He also called attention to the "Glendale Dollar Day July 27" signs which he termed as unsightly. He said that these signs are still being displayed. It was voted that the club should ask the Glendale Credit association to have these signs removed, now that they have served their purpose.

Questionnaire postal cards will be sent to the business men of Glendale to ascertain if they favor the banks remaining open on Saturday afternoons in order to accommodate the "pay roll" residents of the city. W. H. Black and G. C. McConnell were appointed as a committee to prepare and mail out these cards.

E. D. Yard was present as a guest of W. B. Kelley, president of the club. He presented his plans for a campaign to secure a new Southern Pacific depot for Glendale. His plan was endorsed by the club.

Richardson D. White, superintendent of the city schools was another guest. He outlined in detail his ideas as to what Glendale do toward laying a foundation for a "sound and sane" school system by combining the city and high school districts and having the entire school system function under one school board. He urged the club to co-operate in the carrying out of these plans. A public discussion of them will be held at an early date.

Guests of the club present at the dinner yesterday were, E. D. Yard, Dr. O. A. Dietrich, Richardson D. White and Thomas D. Watson. S. F. Bell of the Wilson-Bell Hardware company won the attendance prize.

MRS. WHITE ISSUES INVITATION TO MEET CANDIDATE

Reception for A. Burlingame Johnson, Scheduled for Tonight

Invitations to republicans of Glendale to meet A Burlingame Johnson, of Pasadena, candidate for state senator from this district, were issued yesterday by Mrs. John Robert White. The reception will be at the White residence.

The invitation is general to all republicans, reading as follows:

"The republicans of Glendale are cordially invited to meet Mr. A. Burlingame Johnson, of Pasadena, candidate for state senator from this district, at our home, 347 North Orange street. The meeting will be held tonight, Aug. 3, at 7:30 p. m.— Mrs. John Robert White."

MRS. CARRUTH IS RESTING EASILY

Mrs. Thomas Carruth, a resident of the automobile camping ground on San Fernando road, who was injured in an automobile accident at 11:30 yesterday on San Fernando road, rested easy at the Glendale sanitarium and hospital last night.

REQUEST CARS TO ENTERTAIN K. OF P.

A request is made by the Glendale lodge of the Knights of Pythias that as many automobiles as possible be parked between Olive and Hill streets on Fourth, Los Angeles, in a special parking place, tomorrow morning at 9:30 a. m. The drivers of the machines are requested to drive into the park from Olive street.

The reason for requesting these machines is that there are 198 delegates to the Knights of Pythias convention, to be held in San Francisco, in Los Angeles, and it is the desire of the entertainment committee to bring as many as possible to Glendale before they leave the city. Glendale banners will be displayed on all cars. The machines are requested for Friday and Saturday mornings.

Don't Wait on the Sidelines -- Play the Game -- NOW

With this edition, the live real estate brokers of Glendale return to the market-to-you with their listings.

It seems to the Glendale Daily Press it is fitting that a new idea might be given as a basis for negotiations this fall. A basis upon which buyer, seller and broker may meet with accord.

Mr. Buyer—whether you have $200 or $20,000—when you buy a piece of real estate in California, it is optional with you whether or not you enter the most profitable, most universal, most basic business in the state.

In words of one syllable—if you will consider the purchase only on the basis of its future sale—make your first payment with no expectancy of ever making the last—you may enter the biggest business in the state—the resale of property to newcomers.

The resale of property to newcomers involves willingness to accept a fair profit on your purchase, to credit rent saved as part of your winnings, and make a quick turnover.

In California, it is more profitable to buy and sell and move than to stay or pay rent.

If timidity, fear of loss, causes hesitation, try to realize this:

The presence of millions of people just like you, who have entered this great basic business has made the state the aggressive for improvement country it is.

And this: The majority of houses upon which you rest your eyes in California are for sale, articles of commrece, not yet paid for, and offered at a slight increase in price.

Their owners or occupants have bought those houses and set up housekeeping in them in order to sell them—as a side line to their regular occupation. Their few hundred dollars have put them in the basic business, open only to permanent residents of the state.

They never expect to make the last payment on the properties. They do not expect you will.

Back of them—and back of you, if you will—stand the great financial institutions of the state, who carry the big end of the values of the properties.

The great resources of the big financial institutions of California are back of you when you put your few hundreds into a little property, into the business of buying and selling real estate. They are not in the business of losing money.

These institutions in one form or another are backed by the big money that has confidence in the future of the real estate values of California.

They are relying on your integrity only as a part of the general integrtiy of the owners of property, more properly holders of property in the state, and on the continual advance in property values, of which any property you may make a payment on is an integral part.

It is of no material difference to them whether you or the purchaser from you, makes the final payment—they know the value of the property will increase.

Whoever owns the property, at different periods, is practically a partner of the big institutions of California.

Of course you will meet the payments while you hold the property. They are like rent. Practically only a carrying charge.

Now, as to entering this business:

If you wish to make a quick turn, soon after your first payment, it will require a maximum of capital. You buy near the active property, in the semi-business section.

If you have not sufficient resources, you may still operate, but a little farther away from the business district. So you may recede to the city limits. With each removal you cannot expect as quick returns. You should be prepared to hold for a longer period.

With the subdivisions there is a difference and a difference in subdivisions.

Where improvements develop rapidly, subdivisional property values ascend quickly.

But in any subdivision around Glendale, increased valuation is certain. This is the history of every subdivision in this area.

For, the spectacular advantages around Glendale have given away to an even, steady rise in values that is likely to go on year after year as the subdivisions become settled and intensive population becomes the order.

There is little chance of loss here. The adventure in the business of buying for resale is secure, excepting where purchasers hold for advances far in excess of the steady increase that is going on. In this event, they merely react for the benefit of those with more judgment without getting the price they demand for themselves.

You can enter the business of buying and selling real estate in Glendale on a few hundred cash capital and make a good addition to your yearly revenue, if you will keep in mind that on a resale you are entitled to a fair profit only.

Many are in the business here and making an independent income. For that reason there are many good properties on the market, on th basis of small profit and quick turnover.

In the last analysis, we are all homefolks. We are all acquainted with the city's development. We have special knowledge which is not available to those who come here.

Somewhere east there is a buyer coming to Glendale for every house here. With a few hundred dollars you may secure the title to turn over to him, at a fair profit, when he arrives.

Queer Things Found in the News of Today

WATERWITCH, N. J., Aug. 3.—Valentine Barnhard pulled up a fishing line and on it was a $600 diamond ring he lost four years ago.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Helen Urban, 13, found a purse containing $200 and took it to the owner, who being overjoyed, gave the girl 25 cents reward.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 3.—An army pistol lost by Col. George Stewart many years ago in the Philippines, was found by him in a birthday cake at a banquet here. A friend says he bought the gun from a Filipino thief.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—"It's an ill wind, etc." Loop chiropodists declare that if the street car strike keeps up a few more days their business will be worth more than an oil field.

OMAHA, Aug. 3.—Burglars last night sawed bars from a window at Nicholas Senn hospital and slipped $1500 worth of pure alcohol from barrels inside the building into bottles on the outside, loaded the bottles on to trucks and escaped.

BAND CONCERTS FOR GLENDALE ARE PLANNED

City Officials Consider Use of Elks Organization This Summer

If present plans of the city officials do not miscarry the Glendale citizens will have the pleasure of listening to concerts, given by the Elks' band, during the remainder of the summer. Negotiations have been under way for some time looking toward providing band concerts for Glendale, and it looks now as though this dream would soon become a reality. The members of the Elks' band have signified their willingness to meet the city at least half way in this matter. Their offer so truly reflects their public spirit that there is little chance of it being turned down, it is said.

The prospects are that the new city park on Verdugo road will be the place where the concerts will be given. Suggestions have been made that some be held at other points of the city, and it is possible that various locations may be chosen, the places where the concerts are to be held to be announced from time to time in the Glendale Daily Press.

This band, which is composed of some of the leading young men of the city, have donated their services at the opening of the new city park on August 16, when the merchants' picnic will be held. This band has been heard in Glendale a number of times, and on each occasion has covered itself with glory. The excellent brand of music furnished by this aggregation of horn artists will be seen on the 16th. The concert will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The band has been fortunate in securing the services of L. E. Williams as cornet soloist permanently, and also of F. L. Hummell and G. H. Holmes as clarionet soloists.

The Elks' band consists of the following members: R. E. King, director; H. Noel Graham, drum-major; Maurice Burk, manager; L. E. Wilbur, C. K. Ashton, E. E. Benge, J. A. Hughes, W. A. Winner, Frank Woolard, clarinets; F. L. Hummell, G. H. Holmes, G. W. Pierce, Carl Naudaine, M. Donaldson, George A. Wright, horns; T. F. Tobannesen, E. Spanier, Herbert Henning, J. F. Byrne, A. G. Boone, horns; M. L. White, piccolo and flute; M. C. Gregory, obeo; Franklin Butts, E clarionet; Roy Biddlecom, Leo Goode, drums; Bill Bode, Dr. E. V. Erwin, Roy Pouley, Mr. Knidson, saxophone; Robert Grayson, John Becker, baritone; Frank Prouty, Arthur Fryer, Eddie Moniet, R. R. Johnson, trombones; Maurice Burke, Russell Drake, bass.

TWINS ARE BORN TO THE HEIMS

Little Girl Outweighs Her Baby Brother

Residents in the neighborhood of the new high school site at Verdugo and Broadway, where there is no prejudice against children, are rejoising this morning over news of the birth of twins to Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Heims, 1411 East Broadway. They arrived about midnight on Wednesday and with the enterprise of the modern daughter of Eve, the girl who weighed 6 3-4 pounds, came first. Her modest brother weighed 5½ pounds. They and their mother, who are at a Los Angeles hospital, are said to be doing well and they are very welcome to their surprised parents who already had two little daughters and a boy. The pleased neighbors are talking about a shower of baby clothes so the infants will have no occasion to quarrel over their wardrobe.

PRESS-NEWTON GIVES ALL PROGRAM BY REQUEST OF RECEIVING FANS PHONING

KFAC Orchestra Makes Big Hit At Debut on the Ether by Filling All Orders From Many Distant Points for Favorite Selections

SIMULTANEOUS OPERATION OF STATION

Los Angeles Fan Phones Glendale's Station Has Greater Audibility Than Local Station; Preferred KFAC Music to Anthony Station

The orchestra, conducted by Wilbur P. Funk, bearing the title of "KFAC orchestra," made its debut last evening in grand style, according to reports. That the simultaneous operating of two radio stations at the same time was a success was proved by reports from Los Angeles, which reported the "KFAC orchestra" coming in fine and that it was easy to tune out KFI and tune in KFAC.

Requests poured in by telephone bearing compliment of highest quality. It was not possible to play all of the pieces requested, however. Those that were not given will be scheduled on a future program.

A report from 1527 West Twelfth street, Los Angeles, stated that KFAC's entertainment was the best he had heard, and that the audibility was greater than that of KFI, which is one-half mile from his residence, and that he was able to listen to the Press-Newton program without interference from the Anthony station.

The artists comprising the KFAC orchestra are Mr. Wilbur P. Funk, saxophonist and conductor; Edward Moniot, banjoist; Marion Jones, piano; Stanton D. Smith, tenor saxophone; Mr. Morris Burke, bass horn, and Herbert Brooks, violin.

Mr. Funk is a saxophone instructor and his studio is at 111 East Harvard street. The "KFAC orchestra" is now open for engagements and may be communicated with at Mr. Funk's studio, or by calling Glendale 1322-J.

MUSIC SECTION PROGRAM IS OUTLINED

Will Include Internation Numbers; Vernon Spencer to Lecture

The year's program for the Music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, of which Mrs. Warren Roberts is curator, has been outlined in a general way, and will include American, Russian, Italian, Scotch and Irish music. The December meeting will be given to Christmas music and programs will be devoted to women composers, church music, and juvenile music.

The closing meeting of the section, which will be the annual luncheon, will be held at the home of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones.

At some time during the year Vernon Spencer, who is a favorite with Glendale audiences, will lecture before the section.

MEXICAN SHACK T BE FOUGHT TO FINISH

Enjoining Construction Held in Abeyance Temporarily

The matter of enjoining the construction of the Mexican shacks the intersection of Central aven and the wash was in abeyance, cording to advices received t morning.

The Pacific Electric officials being interviewed in regard to t matter, it is said, but, it is lieved, nothing drastic will done without due deliberation.

"There is probably nothing can do in this matter," said one the residents of Casa Verdugo.

"However, just as soon as Mexican families have been mov in and are established we can clare that the outfit is a nuisan and have it removed. If the Pac Electric does not move the sha on its own accord, this action certainly be taken."

In the meantime the finish touches are being made to shack, which has aroused the re dents of the northern end of valley to such a white heat of p test. This whole matter is burni into the minds of the people Casa Verdugo the one fact that that section were a part of Gl dale, this shack could not possi have been erected. JOHNSON'S CLAIM OF SOLDIER VOTE REPUDIATED

Barney Goss, Returning From Survey, Declares Moore Is Favored

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3. — Repudiation of the early-campaign boast that "the soldier vote" would be cast solidly for Johnson, and "Hiram is the veterans' friend," has been made by Barney Goss, ex-soldier, and ardent worker in behalf of former service men. Mr. Goss returned to Los Angeles after accompanying Charles C. Moore on his recent tour of Southern California, and rendered an interesting and enlightening account of the way this favorite senatorial candidate is being received, and the reasons former soldiers find for giving him their support.

Mr. Moore's record for practical patriotism is one that particularly appeals to former wearers of the uniform. During the war he was head of the state council of defense, and before that he stamped himself as a lover of his country, and one who would show this love at the sacrifice of material things, and with all the time and resources at his command.

When the United States entered the war, Mr. Moore gave an immediate order. "Employes of the Charles C. Moore company are hereby notified that when they enlist in the service of their country, the difference between the salary they are now receiving, and the pay they will receive as a soldier, or wearer of our country's uniform in any capacity, will be made up to them each month. At the end of their period of service their jobs will be open to them, and at the salary they are now receiving."

This order was strictly adhered to.

Mr. Moore further endeared himself to the returned soldiers. After the armistice jobs were scarce, and "the going was tough" for the boys who but a short time before had been feted and cheered. Mr. Moore stepped in and, with his wonderful organization ability, formed the first soldier replacement bureau to operate in the state—a bureau that helped hundreds of needy veterans to gain a fresh hold in civilian life.

Many instances lauding Mr. Moore for his kindness to employes or acquaintances who returned from war in immediate need, and who received quick and substantial assistance from him, have been volunteered to Moore-for-Senator workers, and Mr. Goss predicts that instead of Johnson receiving the "solid soldier vote" or even a respectable proportion of it, Moore will be the almost unanimous choice of those who saw service in the world war and who will cast a California vote at the August election.

The Virgin Islands

were discovered by Columbus in 1493. St. Thomas was first colonized by the Danes in 1666. The islands were held by Denmark until 1917, when the United States took possession, having bought them for $25,000,000. Danish occupation was interrupted by English control through force for a little less than a year from 1801 to 1802, and from 1807 to 1815. The population is about 27,000. The total exports and imports of the Virgin islands in 1919 were about $4,200,000.

BASEBALL'S DAD RESTS IN OLD HONOLULU

Alexander Joy Cartwright Founded the Game in 1846

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—The spread of baseball as a national pastime is probably due to the California gold rush of 1849.

This is the belief of a number of followers of the sport, who have recently been digging into the life and career of Alexander Joy Cartwright, the father of organized baseball.

Cartwright, who was born in New York City in 1820, drew up the first set of rules and organized the first baseball club, the New York Knickerbockers, which played the first game of organized baseball on June 19, 1846, at Elysian Fields, in Hoboken. The Knickerbockers had been organized a year when the first game was played against a temporary club styling themselves the "New York Club."

The game in those days went to the first team obtaining 21 "aces." The final score of the initial game was 23 to 1 in favor of the "New York Club."

Cartwright spent the first 27 years of his life in New York, where he was first employed in a broker's office, and later in a bank. He was a member of a sporting club which played a form of baseball known as "rounders," or variously known as one-old-cat, two-old-cat, and townball, on a spot near where Madison Square Garden now stands. The growth of the city drove them to Murray Heights, and later crowded them from there in 1854. It was then that Cartwright called a meeting of young men to consider hiring a playing field. A committee was formed, and instructed Cartwright to draw up a set of rules for the game. A few days later, under his direction, the Knickerbocker team was formed. Elysian Fields was selected as a playing ground.

On those grounds Cartwright drew a diamond on the dust, and explained the game he had formulated from the old game of rounders.

Early in 1849 the gold rush to California started, and Cartwright heard the call. On March 1, 1849, he joined a party of adventurers who were crossing the plains. They proceeded to Pittsburgh, where during a stay while supplies were bought, he taught the game of baseball to the young men of the town. It was an immediate success. During stops at St. Louis and Independence, Mo., he also introduced the game.

At Boundary, just before starting on the long journey across plains and mountains, he wrote in his diary:

"April 28—During the past week we have passed the time in finishing the wagon covers, stowing away property, varied by hunting, fishing, swimming and playing baseball. I have the ball and the book of rules that we used in forming the Knickerbocker club back home."

He carried the ball and book of rules with him all the way on the long journey. When he arrived at Fort Sutter, where Sacramento, Calif., now stands, on July 4, he wrote in his diary:

"All I have is the clothes I am wearing, my journal, the original baseball, the book of baseball rules, my rifle and ammunition."

He found time to introduce the game both at Fort Sutter and San Francisco.

During the trip he had suffered great privation, and was sick for a time. In San Francisco a physician advised him to go to the Sandwich Islands for his health. So, on August 17, 1849, he sailed for Honolulu, where he arrived, still carrying his baseball and book of rules. He introduced the game in the Hawaiian Islands.

In 1853 he returned to San Francisco, where he met his wife and children, who had come around the Horn, and returned to Honolulu to settle permanently. He entered business for himself as a whaler's agent, and remained in the islands until he died in 1892.

BELLED BUZZARD TERRORIZES IN WEST VA.

Superstition Points to It as a Prophet of Evil

MARLINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 3.—The far-famed "belled" buzzard, claimed by pioneer residents to be more than Pocahontas, Monroe and Mercer counties.

Superstitious residents fear a disaster is imminent, in which there will be a great loss of life. They point to past occasions when the buzzard made its appearance, which were followed by calamities.

For three months prior to the Cabin Creek strike, nine years ago, the buzzard circled the territory in a radius of 100 miles. Later it was reported to have been seen on the Mexican border when there was fighting between the United States troops and Villa's forces.

The bird returned to West Virginia several years ago when there was loss of life by floods. For a year it was in Mingo county.

A Wolf Creek resident said he saw the bird a few days ago. He could plainly hear the bell.

Local history has it that the buzzard was captured by pioneer residents shortly after the war of 1812. The story goes that two men captured the bird, tied the bell to the buzzard's neck and allowed it to escape.

No one has been able to approach the buzzard, and residents are afraid to shoot it.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH HAS MISSIONARY MEETING

Called in Memory of Doctors Shelton and Tibet

The missionary meeting held at the Central Christian church yesterday afternoon was very interesting and very well attended.

The subject of the afternoon was Tibet, and the people of Tibet. The meeting was also held in memory of Dr. Shelton, who did so much good in the missionary field in Tibet, and who later was captured and killed by the natives.

The Alice Jackson section arranged the program for the afternoon, which was very interesting and instructive.

Miss Tessie Williams of Pomona, who leaves September 20 for Africa, where she will take up missionary work, gave a very interesting talk. Mrs. Garretson sang a beautiful solo and Mrs. A. A. Hubbert gave an interesting paper on Tibet and the people and their customs. She also rendered a beautiful solo which was graciously received.

Mrs. M. B. Walker gave an interesting paper on the religion of Tibet.

Miss Eva Garton gave a report of her trip to Asilomar, which was very interesting.

The last part of the program consisted of reports of the state convention, held at Long Beach, given by different members of the society.

The Garton Bacon section made report of new members as follows: Mrs. Abbott of Eagle Rock, Mrs. Frank Jalagen and Mrs. Wilder.

Following the program refreshments of punch and cake were served and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

FOREST WASTE IS APPALLING

So Declares C. H. Shinn, Forest Examiner, Surveying Losses

By CHARLES SHINN

The human race which fought its way through forests for ages has at last discovered that only by restoring the forests over vast areas can civilization be given its fullest development. The latest maps of the condition of the forests in all parts of the world are simply terrible to look upon. This country, for instance, has 81 million acres of unused, unproductive, cut-over and neglected forest land. This is a total area as large as England, Scotland and Wales. Philip W. Ayres, state forester of New Hampshire, calls it our "kingdom of neglect."

The newspapers of America have devoted much space to accounts of meetings of lumbermen-foresters held all over the country to discuss the timber shortage and its principles of a sound forest policy from now on onward. The days of easy-going neglect and waste of our timber resources have ended forever. The centers of the large-scale lumber industries which long ago were at Portland, Maine, and Buffalo, New York, are now on Puget Sound. The mill-owners say that the timber supply of the Pacific northwest cannot last more than 30 or 40 years. There is bound to be a timber shortage, but if the American people, far and wide, insist upon absolute fire protection, the ending of waste of forest resources and the restoration of cut-over lands to usefulness, the shortage can be met and conquered.

Friends of forestry are calling attention to what is known as the Weeks law of 1911. Under its provisions 12 and a half million dollars have been used to buy and improve forest lands at the headwaters of streams. Very much larger sums might be wisely spent in this direction.

FRESNO FOLKS LIKE GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Garner and grandson of Fresno are spending a few weeks at 514 West Colorado. They are talking of buying a home here. The Garners were residents of Pasadena for twenty years. Tuesday, Mrs. Garner's sister, Mrs. Sidney Platt, wife of a prominent business man of Fresno and herself a past president of the Woman's club, arrived for a short visit, having spent part of the summer around San Francisco. With her came their cousin, Mrs. Bowles, wife of the late Judge Bowles of Chicago, and little son. Mrs. Bowles is delighted with Glendale and may also buy here. They are all old-time friends of the Munns, of 515 West Colorado street.

Dr. and Mrs. Willisford and daughter, Joy of Houston, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Rimpau of Hollywood and Mrs. Dora Bundy, were guests at dinner at the home of Mrs. Adeline Munn and mother of 515 West Colorado street.

LITTLE BROWNIE AT BROWN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Brown are the proud parents of a lusty boy, born at their home in Eagle Rock Wednesday night, who will doubtless some day be the partner of his father in the manufacture of Green Hill beverages. Mrs. Brown is the daughter of Mrs. Philip Parker of this city. The Browns also have a daughter, little Mary Lee Brown.

We appreciate hard facts when they come in the shape of silver dollars.

JOHNSON TALKS ON FOUR POWER, NOT HEARST, PACT

Listen in Vain for Speech to the Issues, But Get No Satisfaction

By GERTRUDE GIBBS

An audience which filled the high school auditorium, assembled and was addressed at 7:30 Tuesday night by Senator Hiram Johnson. Though he is too short to be characterized as a man of fine presence, and his voice in itself is rather monotonous and not of a moving quality, when seen his personality is sufficiently magnetic to carry an audience with him, and he was frequently interrupted by applause.

He briefly referred to the Los Angeles Times and the candidates it is supporting, as "the same old crowd" he had always been fighting; that it was the old fight between two philosophies of government, "one that believes in exploiting men, women and children, the other that believes that government belongs to all its people and should be maintained on behalf of all its people."

Said he in part:

"Our brethren on the other side say I am very wrong concerning international relations; that the foreign policy I have advocated in the senate and in the country is a policy fraught with evil and danger to the republic, and one which they, in their wisdom and patriotism, could never tolerate.

"I have learned to know some of the good people who talk of peace. I recognize the urge that is in them and the desire that is theirs to accomplish something for humanity, but I yield to them not one whit in doing what may be done without injury to my nation that there may never again be a great cataclysm such as we have had. Every normal man and normal woman hates war. I cannot conceive of a human being who does not detest, in every fibre of his being, wars between peoples, and all of us who have been making the fight the last two years in Washington have been making it because we desire to prevent another such a conflict as we have just passed through, and for the purpose of promoting permanent peace in all the world.

"One of the singular things in these last few years is that some men who talk peace, talk of it in the most war-like terms. I have never been subjected to such war-like Billingsgate as by gentlemen who insisted they had a monopoly of the peace feeling of the world, and disagreed with me as to the mode of attainment. We ought to be able to discuss without that sort of hysteria.

"The aftermath of war I cannot picture, I cannot explain in detail. Distorted were we intellectually, of course, because each one had someone dear and loved at the front, someone for whom his heart was aching. It was only natural when at last the strife was over, that our intellects did not, for a period, resume their natural way, and hysteria took the place of plain, simple thinking.

"We were told by people who had never seen the terms of the treaty of Versailles and the league of nations covenant, that we must ratify the terms of the league on pain of political oblivion. A few in Washington stood, endeavoring to stem the current, understanding that if we entered into a pact that would involve our independence, we were acting in the interest of broils and controversies which might arise and, acting so that our own might be called upon at some future time to be a part of international quarrels and controversies which were no concern of ours. So we stood in that tide, endeavoring to stem it. Gradually the American people began to understand. Finally, in 1920, when it was submitted to solemn referendum, the people of the United States, by a seven million majority, rendered their decision.

"Much has been said about the four-power pact. Do you realize that I voted for every disarmament measure and opposed the four-power pact treaty? I insisted then, and I insist now, it had naught to do with the disarmament program or the disarmament conference, and that substantially is conceded. I do not recant one bit of my position concerning the four-power pact. I believed I was right. I believe now I was right. I believed it had in it possibilities which in future might mean difficulties, controversies, for us, and after debate was concluded, one of the men, Senator Underwood of Alabama, who was for that pact, and Senator Williams of Mississippi, said there was force behind that four-power pact and we might be called upon to contribute in case of difficulties far away.

"But the four-power pact has passed forever from the senate of the United States. It cannot be an issue in any political campaign now or in any of the years to come. I say now what I said at the conclusion of the discussion, that while I regretted the result, I hoped and prayed it would bring in its train every blessing and all the good its most enthusiastic advocate had promised in its behalf.

"The four-power pact is not a live issue. Not so the league of nations. It has invited the membership of the United States of America. The present administration declined the invitation; has set its face against that pact.

"If the opponents believe it is our duty to go into the league, there is just one place for them to go—into the democratic party, for the republican party has taken its stand and declined to have aught to do with the league.

"So our friends on the other side have one of two horns of a dilemma. Either their position is the same that they took in 1919 and 1920, in which event they must take issue with the administration, or their position has changed and they admit they were wrong then, in which event we may distrust and suspect their position on international affairs today.

"I have had one idea. I have never sought to have our nation isolated. God gave it the only isolation it has, and that is geographical, but of the trade life of the world and of its spiritual life we will always be a part.

"All I have asked is that when the time comes that civilization calls, when humanity cries to us again, you and I and the American people will decide whether we will act and how, and no European nation shall decide it for us.

"That has been our position, and that has been the endeavor we have made. Time has demonstrated the correctness of our position."

The senator referred to the demand made upon him from San Francisco that he vote to ratify the treaty of Versailles without amendments, saying:

"The first name on that communication was the name of the man now opposing me. That was their demand. Of course, it wasn't heeded, and I did just as I thought it right to do. They demanded something that ought not to have been done. There isn't a responsible statesman in all the world today who does not say that the treaty of Versailles is an unworkable document that must be modified or re-written. Lloyd George of England and Poincaire of France have said it.

"I have a goal to reach in international affairs, a single thought during all these years, strenuous beyond the understanding of many of you. I have recalled how, when this nation was a little child among the nations of the earth, there came a time when racial discord threatened our very life blood, and that a man first in the hearts of his countrymen was faced with exactly the same complications that face us now, and that, unless we watch ourselves, are bound to cause difficulty in this government of ours. During Washington's term on one side was England, on the other the much loved France. Each was insisting on embroiling this nation. He was threatened, and the iron entered his soul because of it. He was threatened, too, with the loss of the love of the people to whom he had dedicated his life. He stood like a rock, he breasted the storm, withstood the current and, determining the course to pursue, kept the little nation on its way, untouched by either contender.

"My goal has been his vision. I believe the only fashion in which this government may last in perpetuity and keep all we hold dear in this land of ours, is to keep our nation unfettered, to keep it just the United States of America, ever ready to do its duty and pay its obligations, but always free and unfettered from the touch of any other nation on the face of the earth."

ELDER HAY TAKES BRIDE IN L. A.

Venerable Dean of Christian Church Is Married to Miss Harriet Kirk

Elder John C. Hay, dean of the Christian church pastors in Southern California was married yesterday in Los Angeles to Mrs. Harriet J. Kirkham, sister of a former governor of Iowa, General Francis Marion Drake, who was also founder of Drake university, Des Moines. Mr. Hay is 80 years of age and his bride is 83. He has been pastor of the Christian church in Needles for several years past and has done an outstanding work there. Forty years and more ago Mr. Hay lived in La Canada and every Sunday morning would ride in to Los Angeles to preach in the Christian church there, galloping across the future site of Glendale, then a desert waste. He has preached in the Glendale Christian church and is well known here.

EDISON COMPANY TO ENTERTAIN

Arrangements have been made by the Ladies' Aid of the Tropico Presbyterian church for a free entertainment to be given under the auspices of the organization at the church August 11, by the Edison company, which will consist of moving pictures of their plants, and demonstrations of a great variety of ways in which electrical energy is used. In connection with the entertainment the ladies will serve cake and ice cream for a consideration.

The next meeting of the Ladies' Aid occurs Thursday, August 10, and will probably be a picnic and social affair.

Liberty Bell

rang in celebration of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776. It was brought from England in 1752, and was recast in Philadelphia, when there was inscribed thereon, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof" (Lev. xxv., 10). It was cracked on July 8, 1835, when it was rung in memory of Chief Justice Marshall. Previous to July 8, 1835, it had been tolled annually on Independence day.

PRESBYTERIANS VISIT HOLLYWOOD

Christian Endeavors of Tropico Hear Philharmonic Orchestra

The social committee of the Christian Endeavor society of the Tropico Presbyterian church, entertained 25 members and friends in a novel and interesting way last Tuesday evening. Several machine loads journeyed to the Hollywood bowl and heard a splendid concert by the Philharmonic orchestra assisted by a violin soloist and by Mr. Codman, and a vocal soloist.

Upon returning to Glendale they were invited to the home of Carol Duncan, where the hostess, assisted by members of the committee, served hot chocolate and sandwiches, which were greatly enjoyed by all.

GLENDALE MUSIC CLUB TO MEET

Executive Committee to Discuss Program for Year Book

The executive board of the Glendale Music club will meet Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. W. Kinney, when plans for the coming club year will be discussed including the outline of a program and the preparing of the year book. Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the organization, will come up from Hermosa Beach to attend.

ARMY EFFICIENCY IN BRINKOP FORCES

It has always been conceded that the plan of organization adopted by the army is as near the ideal as human ingenuity could accomplish. This is particularly true since the great war. The lessons in widespread organization learned during the days of combat have been applied to the present day organization of the army, until today it is doubtful if any similar organization can compare with it.

Taking advantage of the knowledge gained by thousands of ex-service men who did so much to build up this organization, Walter Brinkop, who is making such a spectacular fight for the republican nomination for state treasurer, has perfected his organization along military lines.

In explaining what has been done along this line, Frank B. Belcher, chairman of Brinkop's campaign committee, says:

"We found out during the fighting on the other side that certain sized units were best fitted to do certain things. Also that every unit, no matter how large or how small, must be accountable to some immediate higher authority so that the work of the whole could proceed smoothly.

"In Walter Brinkop's campaign this system has been followed out. It was easy for us to do this, as thousands of ex-service men rallied at once to the Brinkop banner, and they were, of course, familiar with the army system.

"Our smallest unit is the Brinkop club. There are over 165 of these clubs now in active operation. They correspond to the company in the army. These clubs were then organized by districts, so that three to six clubs were under the management of the district manager. This corresponds to the battalion in the army. These districts were in turn organized into larger units, corresponding to the military regiments, and then the northern portion of the state was organized separately, as was the southern part, forming in reality two brigades. This gave us a completed organization similar to our army division. That the organization is functioning in the most efficient manner is demonstrated by the system of complete reports we receive daily from even the most remote sections of the state."

WHITE SHRINE HAS BUSINESS SESSION

Members of Omar chapter, White Shrine of Jerusalem, had a business session Wednesday night over which Mrs. Orma Naudain presided as high priestess. Plans for an entertainment for the benefit of the chapter to be given by the men of the organization were discussed, B. F. Bourne being made chairman of the committee on arrangements.

August 16, the regular meeting night, will be "dark."

K. OF C. HOLDS BRIEF SESSION

The Glendale council, Knights of Columbus, met Wednesday evening for a brief session at which there was general discussion of several matters of interest, but no action of any sort was taken, except that the council voted to join with the Los Angeles council in a trip to Catalina. A big boat will be chartered for some Sunday, the latter part of the month.

MRS. MITCHELL SURPRISES SON

Mrs. Alexander Mitchell of 2001 Kenneth road, entertained on Monday with a birthday party in honor of her son, Gilbert. The affair was a total surprise and about twenty friends of the young man enjoyed the affair. Refreshments were served on the lawn, under a spreading tree, and pink and white was the color scheme carried out throughout.

Total Merchandise Trade

LOST ATLANTIS THE ANTEDILUVIAN WORLD

The Emperor of White Magic Is Described

By HANNAH L. HUKILL, M. D., Physician and Chiropractor.

Synopsis: A Press editorial stated the United States government had run up a flag on the new island, which lately lifted its head in the southern Pacific. The preceding articles have sought to briefly explain that the rising land was the ancient continent of Lemuria, which was destroyed by volcanic cataclysm over a million years ago. Geological findings indicate this continent existed and, because of the great earthquake activity in the floor of the ocean, geologists say it will rise again.

Chaos is reduced to order when the great historic plan embracing hundreds of millennia is seen. The tangle is unraveled and the seeming paradoxes are explained. The story of our globe has been set in seven acts by the Creator of the universe. The vast stage is represented by the seven great continents, on which this world drama is being played and the actors are the seven great root races, each on its own continent. It will be remembered that, in previous articles, Lemuria was mentioned as the home of the third root race, from the sub-races of which immigration flowed to the four corners of the then known world. With the destruction of Lemuria and the almost simultaneous rising of Atlantis, the propagation of the race continued under the guidance of the Divine Emperors.

In developing a race-type for the new fourth root race, which was to be born on the new continent of Atlantis, the gods incarnated into the best families in order to lift the vibrations of the slowly evolving humanity. These divine rulers called into incarnation initiates of the great brotherhood, as well as their own disciples, so it was truly said that they had the gods for their progenitors and physical ancestors. Thus generation after generation for thousands of years found this great people rising to the zenith of its glory and splendor. The government was autocratic in those palmy days under the rule of the Divine Kings, but perhaps no other system could have been happier for the people. The rulers coming from a higher evolution themselves did all in their power to aid this child humanity. Their great wisdom made them the natural leaders and ready obedience was ever paid to them, for it was recognized that wisdom gave authority, and that the greatest help that could be given to the ignorant was that they should be guided and trained.

As the centuries rolled on the white emperors, who had held unchallenged sway, began to leave humanity to its own development and as the unchecked powers that the divine rulers wielded passed into the hands of younger souls, abuses crept in and trouble arose. For here, as everywhere, decay began in the corruption of the highest. The plan of the system was that the emperor and his governors of provinces were held accountable for the welfare and happiness of the people. It was a matter of personal honor to the ruling class to know the people were contented and happy. If crime or famine developed anywhere it was regarded as due to negligence or incapacity of the one in authority. Not such an archaic understanding of affairs had the race in those ancient days, and one might suppose, if some such referendum were in vogue at the present day, there might be less red tape in severing the ties that bind some of the high-ups in political life. Furthermore, there might be some hope of having more attention given to federal statutes on alcohol and narcotics than is being given by state authorities at the present time. The truth is, the human family is still in its infancy—hardly out of its swaddling clothes—compared to the great splendor which it shall attain in the far distant future, when crime and money-getting have become obsolete and universal love and universal brotherhood will be the dominant note struck on the planet earth.

The next article will close the series dealing with the submerged continents and will tell something of what black magic did for the lost Atlantis.

Wake

is a small island between Hawaii and Hong Kong. It is about 2000 miles from Hawaii. Wake became an American possession formally on July 4, 1898, when the American flag was hoisted.

Purely Personal

Miss Mary Manbert, of 621 South Columbus, was hostess Wednesday afternoon at a pretty social affair in honor of Miss Grace Hayden, of Porterville, who is the guest of Miss Rebecca Hodge. It was an afternoon tea and the guest list included besides the young ladies mentioned, Misses Ethel Oliver, Irma Lucas, Cecil Chase, Tamson Johnson. Dancing and games entertained the girls and refreshments were served about 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Shives Mitchell and two boys of King City, are the guests of her mother, Mrs. Ella Richardson, of North Brand boulevard. Wednesday the visitors were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Richardson, of Lankershim., who also entertained Mrs. W. C. B. Richardson and family of Atwater avenue, and Miss Margaret Armstrong of King City, who is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Armstrong of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Houston, of 440 West Myrtle avenue, are entertaining Friday evening with a dinner party in honor of their niece and nephew, Lieutenant and Mrs. Edwin T. Lock, of Knoxville, Tenn. Lieut. Lock is an instructor of military tactics at the university of Tennessee, and a graduate of West Point. At the present time they are visiting their parents in Los Angeles. Other guests will be Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Lock and daughter, Mary Lock, and Mrs. M. M. Houston, of Los Angeles.

Mrs. M. A. Adams, who has been visiting her sister in Chicago, recently fell and fractured her hip while in San Francisco. She was on her way here, expecting to open her millinery store, the Adams hat shop on East Broadway. Her many friends will be sorry to learn of her accident.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Doggett have recently sold their home at 1647 South Gardena avenue, and will move in the very near future to 326 West Garfield avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Houston and daughter Dorothy, of 440 West Myrtle avenue, entertained as their dinner guests Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Syms and daughter, Miss Dorothy Syms, Mr. Thomas Wood and Mr. Harry Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Bales, of 323 North Jackson street, recently returned from Mammoth, near Bishop, where they spent a very enjoyable week with friends from Los Angeles.

A. T. Gray is moving from 113 East Broadway to 209 West Broadway, where he will occupy the first floor. His business has outgrown the old office, making it necessary to secure a new location.

Dr. W. F. Winnard, pastor of the Tropico Presbyterian church, is taking no vacation this summer that will call him from Glendale, but is vacating responsibilities for the mid-week prayer service and for the Sunday evening service. The last named is in charge of the men's club of the church and is a substitute for its regular meetings. Dr. Winnard occupies the pulpit at the Sunday morning services.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Galvin, of 1344 North Columbus avenue, leave Saturday for a two weeks' motor trip, during which they will visit the Mammoth caves, Yosemite, and Tahoe. Their small son, Jack, will accompany them.

Mrs. J. M. York, of 119 East Wilson avenue, left Friday for Cincinnati, Ohio. Her mother is ill there and the length of her stay will depend upon her mother's health.

Mrs. J. A. Engle, of 814 East Harvard, has as a houseguest this week her daughter, Mrs. Logan Fairchild and two children, Johnnie and Margaret, of Altadena.

Miss Marjorie Brown, the daughter of the Fred Browns of 323 Salem street, will leave on Saturday for a week's camping trip. She is to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. Kellan and Mt. Frazier is the destination of the party.

Mrs. Emma Brownfield and her daughter, Dorothy, of 364 North Louise, were the dinner guests last evening of Dr. Richard Lane of Doran street.

Mr. Bert Woodard, of 214 North Maryland, returned on Tuesday from a 6-day business trip to San Francisco. Mr. Woodard is an attorney here.

Dr. J. E. Eckles, of 125½ North Brand, is rejoicing in a brand new suite of rooms, freshly decorated. There are seven rooms in the new offices, which are located on the south side of the same building which he formerly occupied.

Mrs. Robert Plume, of 338 Burchett street, entertained at a luncheon on Tuesday. Her guests were Mesdames Herbert Whittaker, Mary C. Grayson, H. M. Buff, and Miss Lillian Shick.

Two Rhodes Scholarships

are assigned to each state in the Union. They are for a period of three years and are worth £300 a year. To be eligible a student must be an American citizen, between 19 and 25 years of age, and above sophomore standing in a recognized degree-granting college or university. Selections are made on the basis of a candidate's standing in his institution, his references, and the result of an interview with the committee. Decisions are based on personality, literary and scholastic ability, physical vigor, as demonstrated by participation in outdoor sports, and in other ways. These scholarships, which are granted each year in two-thirds of the states of the Union, are good for the University of Oxford.

Truth in a nutshell is often hard to crack.

FRENCH CRIMINALS USE REVOLVERS SINCE WAR

"Draw a Browning" Instead of Knife or Club

By JOHN O'BRIEN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Ever since the investigation of crime has been somewhat of an exact science, the French sleuth has been guided by an invariable rule—"Cherchez la femme" (Look for the woman). It is so no longer. The French detective now asks himself merely, "Why did she do it?" Seven out of ten of all the crimes have had a woman as principal or active accomplice.

The "woman with the Browning"—that's the common French expression for a "gun"—has taken the place of the Apache in lurid novels and even in the comic papers. She has become a feature of French life. She belongs in all walks of life.

One day it is the wife of a Bordeaux theatre manager, who, furious at seeing her husband install his mistress within a block of the conjugal domicile, waits for him at the theatre door and "kills her man" in approved gunfighter fashion. She is acquitted.

Within a week Paris learns that a flower seller has walked into a police station calmly announcing that her husband came home drunk that morning, whereupon she grabbed a "Browning" and let him have it. She was not even held for trial.

"Guite," the blond proprietress of a cafe in the center of Paris, tired of the constant demands for money from her sweetheart, shows that she, too, has learned how to shoot to kill. She is acquitted, the judge merely telling her to be more careful in her choice of men friends in the future.

Just now the papers are giving columns to the "affaire Bessarabo" while, as the trial is drawing to a close, the police reporters are brushing up on the "affaire" of the "husband cut in pieces," in which the victim's wife—or rather, widow—is one of the three principals incriminated.

This use of the revolver is one of the outstanding features of criminality in France. Police experts hold that it is a natural result of the war. Men who had never had a firearm in their hands, spent years in the trenches, handling pistols as they would a cane, until they got so accustomed to "drawing a gun" that they didn't think of abandoning the habit when the war came to an end.

The typical Apache always used a knife or a bludgeon, in the old days. He now uses a "Browning." So does the woman who accompanies him. And the vogue of the pistol has passed into "the best society."

M. Leullier, the prefect of police of Paris, took office about a year ago with the expressed intention of "cleaning up" Paris. He formed special squads of plain clothes detectives, each squad having a well-defined task to perform. Leullier's system has worked extraordinarily well. The gangs, who frequented the Boise de Boulogne after sundown, have been broken up. The cocaine sellers are filling the central prison.

While this cleaning up process is being accomplished, the floating population of criminals in the French capital is being augmented by a new element which is proving very difficult to handle. One of the inspectors of Prefect Leullier's squads told the United Press correspondent recently that there are several hundred Americans, discharged soldiers or deserters, young fellows from one or other of the many post-war organizations, which have been disbanded in the last few months, crooks with jail records in three continents, now actively engaged in fleecing visitors to Paris. Scores of these have been arrested and deported, but many others have simply crossed the frontier into Belgium on their way to Antwerp and the Statue of Liberty only to make a right about face and turn up a few weeks later in Montmartre or the Boulevards.

One crook of this kind was arrested no less than five times before he was definitely placed aboard a transport in Antwerp. Dozens of his kind are in evidence every night around the Montmartre resorts, where they have even revived the "cadet" system, which "Little Tim" Sullivan smashed on New York's East Side years ago. Owing to the laxity of French laws governing this special brand of criminal activities, the police can make little headway.

Truths in Epigram

For where God built a church, there the devil would also build a chapel.—Luther (1495-1553).

One inch of joy surmounts of grief a span, because to laugh is proper to the man.—Rabelais (1495-1553).

Nothing happens to anybody which he is not fitted by nature to bear.—Aurelius (121-180).

CURDLING THE CREAM

A dancer now in some controversy with a rich New Yorker says that "the cream of New York society is going to curdle in the cup of scandal" when her trial comes up. Perhaps so. It may be that what she conceives to be cream is only a spurious scum, but no matter. New York society lacks the country-wide importance which some appear to attach to it. In the first place, nobody outside the metropolis knows what it is, and the truth is, nobody cares. There are individuals who are proclaimed, particularly when caught in disgraceful circumstance, to belong to society. At the same time another element there, regarding itself as the only blown-in-the-bottle society folk, wouldn't let these individuals into the house, unless by the servants' entrance, and who never heard of the putative stars of the upper circle.

Not long ago a seamed and deftly thatched and padded old woman from America placed herself on exhibition at a French watering place. Doubtless she accepted herself as a type of the highest social distincton at home. In reality she was a crude and curious display. Bracelets she wore in number, diamonds and pearls in great bands about both wrists. Her hands gleamed with jewels worth a fortune each. At her neck dangled four—count 'em—four strings of pearls. The poor freak.

When persons of great wealth are guilty of indiscretion involving morals or extravagance, it is common to allocate them to "society," and to turn in their direction eyes wishful of seeing society squirm. There is never a squirm. The particular social equation indicated simply repudiates the culprits.

THE CURVES OF LIFE

Last Sunday was no exception in its gruesome addition to the death totals. The accidents, as usual, were of the avoidable but unavoided class. A characteristic one occurred on a curve. Hurtling to the curve at such speed that it took a tangent, and plunged through a protecting railing, a large machine was dashed far below, with fatal results.

Life is not a straight line from one point to another. It is marked by dangerous curves. There are stretches where the thoughtful traveler heeds the admonition "Go slow." At times the road is clear, and a high momentum is suggested by circumstances as not only safe, but proper. A goal in sight, and an unobstructed track permits one to put on speed, whatever the line of endeavor happens to be.

Were man assured perfect health, one of the curves would be eliminated. There comes a time when the strength wanes, the keenness of vision is impaired, the judgment confounded. It is then that caution ought to be exercised, but it is then that recklessness is most likely to prevail. The roadway signs are unheeded, and the human mechanism, prolonging the tangent, leaves the curve, to be dashed, a wreck on the rocks below.

In business similar emergencies arise. There is no highway that leads straight and swift to fortune. As the journey is made, there must be places for slowing up, spots where the curves may not be disregarded without disaster. The scrambler after success heeds no curve. He sets his face towards the desired terminal, and only the short cut will satisfy him. He is as the automobile speeder who ignores all signals. In the end he gets smashed.

People wonder that drivers are so heedless. Nevertheless, the drivers act in consonance with human habit. When they get killed the event has a shocking spectacularity, and thus wins special notice. The madness for speed is not confined to the person at the wheel.

TO ABANDON HAITI

The government is urged to withdraw marines from Haiti, and to leave the people of that island to their fate. History has shown that this fate could not be otherwise than horrible. The statement may be added that the admonition to shirk the performance of a plain duty has not been observed to come in any part, from a respectable source. It is printed in a string of papers that so short a time ago as when the United States was at war, were extending aid and comfort to the enemy. No reason is cited why the government should become guilty of the dereliction suggested. Perhaps the island promises something in the way of private exploitation, explaining the desire that it be left unprotected.

Doubtless the government would be glad of the opportunity to get out of Haiti and stay out. It gets no material gain from maintenance of order there. It might leave the islanders to the rule of their native voodooism, and permit them to destroy each other. It might tacitly lend sanction to the practice of human sacrifice, and allow the streams to run red with blood, as invariably they have done when the Haitians have worked their own will. Their tendency is to sink to the lowest form of barbarism. While they are being saved from this, it is possible that they may reach a plane of development from which they would be disinclined to slip back. Anyhow, if the presence of marines does nothing but prevent orgies of murder, it seems a useful and desirable presence now.

This country fought one war for promotion of peace. In Haiti it is preserving peace without having to resort to war. The native passions are kept in subjection by the mere fact that American marines are there. To keep them there is entirely in accord with American principles. The marines are not there for oppression, but for the purpose of helping the people who without them would be either savages, or the victims of savagery unrestrained.

The king of Italy is said to feel insulted because the mother of the murdered czar had declared that his royalty would not be permitted to enter the house sheltering her. She gave as a reason that at Genoa the king had shaken hands with the assassins of her son. This will generally be perceived to be full explanation of her conduct. If there has been an insult, it was to the mother.

Dr. Wynn of Indianapolis, an enthusiastic mountain climber, recently was killed by a fall in Glacier Park while indulging in his favored avocation. This will not discourage other climbers. When a height seems to be impossible to scale, and the way beset with danger, it is exactly the situation that excites the desire to conquer it.

WHAT IS DEMOCRACY?

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ARTICLE VI

The definition of Democracy that we are considering is as follows:

Democracy is (1) a Force (2) of Opinion (3) and of Feeling (4) operating within the People (5) enabling the Majority of them (6) to Get what they Want (7) by means of Organization (8) and to make these gains secure by Laws, (9) for it is only by making its own Mistakes that a nation can (10) achieve its destiny, which is To Grow.

DR. FRANK CRANE

We have considered the first five points and come now to the sixth.

This is the most important item of all.

It is that the purpose of a Democracy is to give the people what they Want.

Its aim is not a perfect government.

There have been many schemes of government proposed by thinkers, from Plato to Karl Marx. Almost any of them on paper is better than anything Democracy can produce at present. There is only one trouble with them all. People do not want them yet. And what they do not want, and what they are not ready for, they cannot operate.

The world is young, it is inexperienced, and it is far from settled in its ideas. And the only kind of government under which they can correct these delinquencies is a government that is imperfect as they are.

Almost anybody can sit down and devise an ideal state, in which all the present wrongs should be righted, and in which there shall be no poverty and no injustice. But he could not make it work with people as they are any more than one could govern a boys' camp by the rules of the senate.

Very often, of course, the people want what is bad for them. But it is much better for them to get even that, if they want it, than to get what is good for them if they do not want it.

We cannot understand this unless we keep in mind that the whole object of government is to enable the people to grow, to develop.

And with a nation it is just as with an individual. When you get what you want you very often find out what a fool you are. When you never get what you want, you never know what a fool you are, which is a much more dangerous state.

In other words, by getting what we want, we amass that most necessary thing for the strengthening and maturing of life—Experience.

Democracy is a series of unending experiments.

We might say that it is a series of continual failures. And yet that is the only way to progress. For walking is no more than a series of falls forward.

The only way to improve a Democracy is to improve the people who compose it. In the long run it does no good to make better laws and elect better officials and build up better institutions except in so far as these shall have their bearing upon making the great mass of the people better.

For Growth, real Growth, from imperfect adolescence to adult-mindedness, does not consist in acquiring more knowledge, or learning better manners; it consists primarily in getting better wants. There is no genuine culture that is not an improvement in our desires.

And about the only way people improve their desires is in the rough and tumble school of experiment.

Democracy, therefore, gets the people what they want; not every Saturday night but in the long run. And by this means, and by this means only, is the quality of the wants of the people improved, and thus Democracy is improved and its government is improved.

And there is no possible progress any other way for the people who compose a nation.

Origin: in (Latin)—in; gratia (Latin).—favor.

THE LISTENING POST

Your job for instance.

Whatever it may be.

The thing you get your bread and butter by.

There are several ways to get bread and butter.

But there is only one proper way if you are of sound health and mind.

That is to earn it.

Some beg it.

Some borrow it without the intention of returning it, which is another way of stealing it.

Some steal it outright.

Some have it provided for them by gift or legacy.

Some get it by sharp practice which is another of the ways of stealing it, a little more contemptible than the way of the sneak thief.

But the only way to get bread and butter rightly is to earn it.

And nothing tastes so good as earned bread and butter.

And to earn it you have to have a job.

Big or little, as the case may be.

It may be the direction of ten thousand workmen.

It may be digging in a hole with a pick and shovel.

What it is of necessary and useful labor, it is a job.

* * *

Whether it is mining coal or catching fish.

Whether it is cutting down trees or boring for oil.

Whether it is ordering or obeying.

Mixing mortars or sailing ships.

Planning or executing.

It is all in the job line.

* * *

And the longer we live the more we realize how important jobs are.

For the sum of them is the work of the world.

And without work the world would be still in the jungle.

Raging with fevers, swarming with insects, fighting with wooden spears and bleeding and stinking and dying.

It is the job done that gives you bread.

A house to live in.

A tub to bathe in.

Clothes to wear.

Motor cars and electric fans and phonographs and cooking utensils and this, that and the other.

The jobs done by somebody or other make life gladder, cleaner, finer, better, happier.

NOW—

You've got a job.

Whatever it may be.

Are you lighting into it with all your courage and strength and spirit?

Are you giving it the best you have in you?

Are you sticking at it for a full eight hours?

Are you resolved to make things hum about you?

With industry and persistence and perseverance?

* * *

That is after all the question.

What are you doing about your job?

Are you doing it with all the strength you have?

Or are you just nursing along and keeping it sufficiently alive to keep you on the pay roll?

Are you putting into it the best you have?

Or are you dodging and sidestepping and evading and letting your spirit die on it?

* * *

You don't know what there is in the world for you until you have put your best self into your job.

You don't know what you can do till you have gone the limit of spirit and work.

You don't know what a difference between the spirit of work and the spirit of shirking.

It is your affair.

And the world's affair.

And sometime you will have to settle accounts with the world.

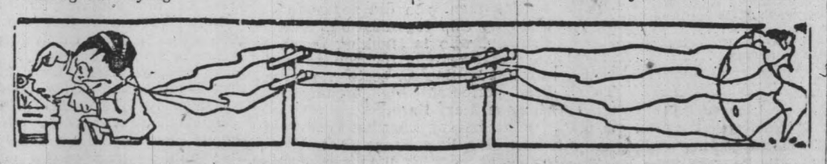
* * *

And the world will either pay you well and gladly.

Or, in the language of the job itself, it will fire you.

What do you want?

JAMES W. FOLEY.



SONGS OF THE POETS

The Shepherd Boy Sings in the Valley of Humiliation—By John Bunyan (1682-1688)

He that is down needs fear no fall,
He that is low, no pride;
He that is humble ever shall
Have God to be his guide.

I am content with what I have,
Little be it or much:
And, Lord, contentment still I crave,
Because thou savest such.

Fullness to such a burden is
That go to pilgrimage:
Here little, and hereafter bliss,
Is best from age to age.

Mexico's Oldest Tree Showing Age

Mexico's largest tree, the venerable cypress in the church yard at Tule, which foresters say was standing 1000 years before Columbus discovered America, is beginning to show the weight of years.

The giant tree is a Taxodium distichum and its Aztec name is ahuehuetl. It was so well grown 400 years ago that it sheltered under its generous spread of branches Hernando Cortez and his followers on their ill-fated expedition to Honduras, and was at that time a source of astonishment to those hardy and hardened conquistadores.

Today it is about 160 feet high and four feet from the ground its trunk is 160 feet in circumference. Its branches have a spread of 140 feet.

Recently the great trunk has shown sign of splitting. Reports from the state of Oaxaca, to which many tourists have gone in years past for a sight of the "great tree of Tule," are that age is at last putting its mark on this representative of the forest family commercial lumber interests have exploited as "the word eternal."

In size it resembles the great Banyan (Ficus Indica) in the botanical garden at Calcutta and the Chestnut Tree of 100 Horses, said to be the largest tree in the world, at the foot of Mt. Etna.

Baron von Humboldt was so impressed by the gigantic proportions of this great savin, which he considered a worthy rival of the huge baobab (Adansonia digitata) of Africa, believed to be the oldest organic monument on the globe, that he inscribed his name on the trunk, an inscription now nearly overgrown by the bark.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

TEACHING GOODNESS

[Lewiston Journal]

A Boston newspaper raises the question as to why goodness should not be taught in the school.

It is being taught by men and women, in school and out, by their examples, in the most potent way. Not one of us but recalls the "beloved professor" because he radiated sheer goodness, the quintessence of kindness to man and boy and beast. We all remember him: gentle, patient, with a sense of humor that often saved the day and the boy, at a crucial moment perhaps of needed discipline.

Teach goodness? Yes, that way; and here is one reason why school committees, which are so busy just about this time of year in engaging teachers, should remember that they are buying for their communities a priceless gift for the children—the gift of a good example, a teacher of goodness, as well as of French, or "math" or some other science or art.

THE STRIKE PROBLEM

[Philadelphia Public Ledger]

Whether employer or employed sin most in the horrors visited upon the public in the form of strikes is not the question. Strikes are results. They will continue until their cause is removed. How to do that is a problem. But the problem, however difficult, is not insoluble. A little of the genius that transformed the world from agrarianism to industrialism, mixed with common sense and the Golden Rule, surely would find the way.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A writer has been describing at considerable length the influence of the heavenly bodies upon the authors of recent particularly heinous crimes.

HENRY JAMES

It hardly is necessary to state to intelligent people that no such influence exists. Belief in stellar influence upon human conduct is one of the most stupid of superstitions. Astrology never was a science. The professional astrologer generally is a fraud preying upon ignorance. If sincere, he is on the mental plane of the restrained unfortunate who admits to visitors the peculiarity of being Napoleon or a poached egg.

Observe the excerpt from the dope:

"The aspects of the configuration that prevailed in the heavens at the time of the Meadows crime were of a powerful and violent nature. The influences of the configuration began last January and became acute in February. There was a retrograde action with a weakening influence until a new and more powerful culmination formed recently, under which the Meadows crime, one of the most harrowing in history, was committed."

As this might not be wholly convincing, the following paragraph is used as a clincher:

"At that time the moon made squares to Saturn and Jupiter, which had the tendency of bringing out inharmony in matrimonial unions."

Could anything be more lucid? The moon and Jupiter and Saturn bore such relations to each other, that a jealous wife purchased a hammer and beat out the brains of another woman.

The indictment of the moon, of Jupiter and Saturn ought to be demanded forthwith, and their expulsion from the azure canopy demanded.

Every outstanding crime, says the writer, should be studied from the occult side. But she is wrong if the student must first lose the faculty of reason.

There was a Los Angeles policeman named Hosick a few years ago. One day a stranger bearing a dynamite bomb came into the police station and informed all and sundry that at the end of a short period of minutes, which he stipulated, he intended blowing the place and all in it, to small and unrecognizable bits. Hosick happened to be among those present. The scheme not appealing to his sense of fitness, he grabbed the bomb person, heaved the bomb outside, and all was well, although spectators were noticed to be a little pale about the gills.

Hosick had been studying law, and about then began to practice. Now he is candidate for police judge. It would be pleasing to see a person of his nerve look a speeder in the eye, remarking as he did so "Ninety days. Next case." Courage is as useful on the bench as on a police beat.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

If you had ever known Gracie you would understand just how funny this seems to me. Gracie spent the brighter years of her young life in trying to chase an eligible into a corner and slip a ring on him before he could fight his way free. Her mother was that sort of a woman before her. They were absolutely relentless in their pursuit of a meal ticket for Gracie, just as Gracie's mother had been until she pinned old Jim down.

"I don't see how a girl can marry unless she truly loves," was Gracie's catch-line. Then she would turn the limpids on the wriggling young man and telepath him to the effect that she was in the most terrible throes of true love. She was a good looker, too—slender, with plenty of the right sort of figure in the right place, a pretty face, pretty feet, pretty ankles. Old Jim used to say:

"That girl of mine certainly does put up a fine street parade. But no one ever comes to the evening performance."

At last she gave it up. She had moved on toward thirty, and when she got demure and kittenish the young men of her age rose with an air of pain and sought the open space. She was threatened with vixenism, which comes to most women who have missed their aim in life. When Gracie and her ma put on a battle the old man used to say it was worth going miles to get away from. He was a disheartened old cuss, Jim was. Years before he had realized that he was just a convenience around the house, like a safe deposit box for mortgages.

So, having given it up, Gracie went to work. She astounded every one by revealing she really has a mind. Since this Pocahontas style of exterior decoration came in among the girls Gracie had been going about looking like an advertisement of color varnishes on a red barn, but when she went to work she washed her face. She powdered, of course——

Permit a bitter interpolation. Heaven help this country when our fair young girls start to going about with their little noses shiny, after the British fashion——

She powdered, but she did not daub. She was so interested in her work that even her old chump of a mother could not dishearten her. She had always been a pretty girl, but she became a beautiful woman. It is a shame that this story has the wrong sort of a moral.

But—having given up the hope of marrying—she fell in love with her boss and they got married today.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA E. STEWART

Some day we're going to become more highly civilized. We are going to see that we have more duty to the living than to the dead, and that respect and love for the latter are not best shown by piling marble and granite about their silent resting places, but by transferring some measure of the heart sentiment that we had for them to those who yet are in need of it.

For the years bring many changes to the living. The dead wot not. In one of our western cities recently the widow of a once rich man made petition to the courts that she might sell her husband's mausoleum. "My husband was rich and wanted a fine tomb. I built a twenty-five thousand dollar mausoleum and added a statue of grief. Now I am old and in poverty." Thus she stated her reasons.

The idea at first thought seems almost sacrilege. But is it? Would the husband who truly loved his wife condemn her to want that he might have a costly structure over his last resting place? Do appreciation or sorrow or regretful love have their abiding place in granite piles and marble statues? Do our loved dead rest more peacefully because of dollars spent over their graves?

Custom lays heavy hands upon us. And, grown generous in our belief, we often give to the dead what we have denied them living—as if monuments and costly flowers would atone for neglect or ill-treatment. And sometimes we allow personal pride and love of display to rule even our grief.

Ostentatious show for the dead? Or added consideration and kindness for those yet with us?

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

MOORE CAMPAIGN SHOWS DISGUST WITH JOHNSON

Strong Opponent Finds Rady Support Among Loyal Republicans

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3.—The campaign that is being conducted for Charles C. Moore for the republican nomination for United States senator in California against Hiram Johnson, the present senator, has developed the fact that there are a great many republicans, and many of these former supporters of oJhnson, who are disgusted with Johnson's attitude toward the present republican administration.

On being told by Johnson adherents in the present campaign and being flooded with Johnson propaganda attempting to show that Senator Johnson, and Johnson alone, has secured them favorable tariff legislation, the citrus growers and the walnut growers, and other growers, too, call to mind the fact that had they accepted the advice of Mr. Johnson some years ago there would have been no republican party in California, and, therefore, no California senators or representatives in Washington whose voices would have been heard by the republican party or who would have had the influence to secure tariff legislation favorable to this state.

California agriculturalists are not being misled by this persistent propaganda for Johnson. They have good memories, and they cannot be made to believe that Senator Johnson, leagued with La Follette, Reed, Borah and Hearst, and not in sympathy with the republican leaders in congress, or with President Harding and his cabinet officers, could alone and single-handed secure for them favorable legislation.

Like the attempt of Johnson's campaign managers to keep up the delusion of the working people that Johnson has been working tirelessly in their behalf, and with the women, that Johnson has been leading the fight against child labor for the past six years, this effort to delude the agriculturalists is falling flat.

From all of the Southern California counties comes absolute assurance to the men and women who have launched the campaign for Charles C. Moore that few are being fooled by the Johnson propaganda.

ADVANCE FARES FOR WOODLANDS PROTESTED

Realty Board Hears of Zoning for Fares Up the Canyon

The realty board members of Burbank and Eagle Rock failed to attend the joint meeting with the Glendale board scheduled for yesterday. There were two members of the Eagle Rock board present, Mr. Young and Mr. Jones, but no representation from the Burbank organization.

The most interesting discussion of the meeting centered around the proposed electrification of the Salt Lake line on Glendale avenue and the operating of that line in cooperation with the Glendale-Montrose railroad to serve the people of the Montrose, Verdugo Woodland and La Crescenta district.

John F. McClish, a newly-appointed member of the committee in charge of the raising of the $25,000 bonus required by the Salt Lake line before starting the work of electrifying the line, said that contributions from property owners. In the section of the city to reap the benefit of the proposed improvement are not coming in as fast as could be desired and that the railroad officials have intimated that only a short time was left for Glendale to take advantage of the offer to improve the road. He urged that these assessments or contributions be paid as soon as possible.

W. L. Twining of the F. P. Newport company said he felt that the people in Verdugo Woodlands, in the event they contributed to the fund, would be paying out money for the privilege of paying a higher street car fare into Glendale than they are paying at present. He said he had been informed that under plans being prepared by the Glendale-Montrose railroad, in the event the electrification proposition is successful, the city, as served by this line, would be zoned and the fare to Verdugo Woodlands from the center of Glendale would be 10 cents, or double the present rate.

He said that if this is correct he for one would be opposed to paying one cent of the bonus. Another realtor, who did not want his name mentioned, said that if the zoning plan became effective that he would be opposed to the paying of any part of the fee and would advise several of his clients to that effect.

Mr. Twining said that if the Glendale-Montrose line would give the same rate under the proposed improvements as are effective at present his company would be willing to help in the financing of the proposition through contributions to the fund.

P. L. Hatch, manager of the Glendale-Montrose line, was called before the board to inform the members as to the possibility of zoning the city in the event the electrification plans were successful. He told the members that the company represented by him had made some tentative plans for the zoning of the district, but that before they were effective the railroad commission would have to pass on them.

Under the zoning proposal, as outlined by Mr. Hatch, the fare from Brand boulevard and Broadway to Monterey road would be five cents, and on the other side of Monterey road, including Verdugo Woodlands, the fare would be ten cents. In other sections of the district it would be still higher.

The board, as a board, took no action on the matter, but practically everyone present expressed his opinion as not favoring the proposed plan to zone the district served by the Glendale-Montrose carline.

It was decided that the realty board members should plan to meet with the Montrose-La Crescenta Improvement association tonight and further discuss the proposition.

Mr. Young of the Eagle Rock realty board, was called on for an address.

He said he does not believe that the bad feeling exists at present between Eagle Rock and Glendale as in former years. The people on the other side of the dividing line would, in the event of annexation, prefer affiliating with Glendale to any of the larger cities. Some people believe that the sewer situation will make it necessary for Eagle Rock to merge with Los Angeles, but the general opinion is that this is not the case. From a school standpoint the two cities should join. At present there is no dividing line between the two and the only way it is possible to tell when the imaginary line has been crossed is to close the eyes and notice the difference in the paving of the streets.

He concluded his remarks by saying, "I believe that the people of Eagle Rock are willing to work with the Glendalians for the mutual benefit of the entire community.

Dr. Jessie Russell called attention to the strip of road on Glendale boulevard that runs into Edendale.

She said that this road is a disgrace to both Glendale and Los Angeles. The street in question is inside the limits of Los Angeles and Dr. Russell said she had been informed that when the proposal to improve the street was first mentioned through the council of that city, the property owners of the section opposed it because of the cost.

It was moved that a committee of three be appointed from among the board members to investigate and make an attempt to have the street fixed.

Mr. Twining was called on for a few remarks and told of the fight that the Verdugo Woodlands property owners are putting up for a sewer. He said that the main pipes are already laid for the system and that the city has informed his company that it will not be long until the remainder of the plant will be installed.

He closed his address by saying that he believed many people do not know all about Verdugo Woodlands. In order to make the realtors better acquainted with the district he invited them to attend a barbecue dinner al fresco next Tuesday night in the Woodlands. The invitation was accepted.

City Manager W. H. Reeves spoke briefly, and called attention to two minor matters before going on with his talk. He reminded the board members that there would be a picnic at the new Glendale Verdugo park, in the Woodlands, on next Thursday. He also reminded the members of the board that Glendale has a baseball team worthy of support and advised that the fans arrange to attend a game some time.

He spoke briefly on the sewer situation in this city. He said in starting, "Before we can become the city we want to be we must have sewers." The possibility of Los Angeles helping Glendale solve the sewage problem was shattered by Mr. Reeves, who said that in the recently voted sewer bond issue of $12,000,000 in Los Angeles no provision had been made for outside communities.

A letter from the Glendale Union High school trustees, asking that a speaker be allowed to address the board some time before the next mass meeting, to be held August 10, and explain the needs of the city for a larger high school was read.

It was moved that the trustees be invited to send the speaker to the next meeting of the board.

VACATION SCHOOL CLOSES AT CHURCH

Exercises Demonstrate Value of Summer Bible Institution

On Tuesday evening the closing exercises of the daily vacation Bible school were held at the Presbyterian church. The program had been planned by the teachers of the school and was in charge of Miss Anita Fletcher, the principal of the school. The exercises were most interesting and gave to the audience a portrayal of the work of the school as it si actually carried on. Beginning with the kindergarten department, each department of the school gave a part of the work as it is actually carried on when the school is in session. A large audience was present and after the exercises were over, visited the Sunday school rooms, where the craft work of the school was displayed. The parents of the children in the school showed their appreciaion of the work of the school by giving a liberal offering to assist in defraying the expenses of the school.

The teachers who carried on the school were as follows: Miss Anita Fletcher, principal; Mrs. Geo. H. Martin, kindergarten; Miss Anabel McClellan, primary; Miss Agnes Tupper, junior girls; D. L. Foster, junior boys. The school was a great success and plans are under way for another school next year.

W. C. T. U. PICNIC SCHEDULED FRIDAY

The Glendale W. C. T. U. will hold their annula picnic tomorrow, rFiday, August 4, at Echo park. All are asked to bring their lunch, coffee will be served on the grounds at noon. All are urged to attend and bring their friends.

PLANS OF TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB SECTIONS

Friday night, August 4, the Christian Endeavor society of the Central Christian church of this city will hol da district social in the social hall.

Miss Alice Mercer and Miss Helen Ingle are in charge of arrangements and the program which will be presented.

There will also be short talks by the delegates who attended the convention recently held.

SOCIAL HOUR AT PACIFIC CHURCH

The Pacific Avenue Methodist church will hold a social at the church tomorrow evening, Friday, August 4. This is a community social and all are nivited to attend.

The ladies' aid of the church are in charge of the program, which is going to be a good one and one which everyone will enjoy. In addition to the program some very interesting games have been planned.

Ice cream and cake will be served and a silver offering will be taken, the proceeds of which will be used toward the fund for the new carpet for the church.

Everyone is most cordially invited and a good time is assured for all.

PROHIBITION AS MOTHERS SEE IT

Mrs. Kathleen Norris, Fiction Writer, Speaks to Congress of Reforms

PACIFIC GROVE, Calif., Aug. 4. Prohibition, "As a Mother Sees It," was the subject of an address delivered last night before the congress of reforms, in session under W. C. T. U. auspices, by Mrs. Kathleen Norris, noted fiction writer.

"There is no longer, properly speaking, any question of prohibition," Mrs. Norris asserted. "It exists. It is here—the country has declared for it. Of course, you may differ with your country. I may be a pacifist, you may believe in slave dealing or duelling, or you may disbelieve in vaccination in the public schools. But, I say, you may not discuss and disseminate ways to outwit your country on these questions, and, I say, you may not make a joke of these things, for they are law, and defiance of your country's law is treason.

"We are here to determine whether we are loyal citizens or lawbreakers. If California passes the Wright enforcement law, she announces to the whole world that she is a respecter of law. If she does not she allies herself frankly with the lawbreakers. The Wright bill is not a new law. It is simply a law to protect a law. If the law changed, the Wright law would change, too. The question is not the danger of drink, but the danger of lawbreaking. You and I know that the nation divided against itself will fall. It is for us to unite our nation as she has always been united, for the right."

Purely Personal

A. Fleming of 1137 East Elk is expecting his grandson, Frank Crostrove of Minneapolis, Minn., to arrive here in the near future. Mr. Crostrove will be accompanied by a friend and plans to make his home here, though hsi only experience with Glendale has been through the pleasing reports which he has heard.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Farlander of 354 West Riverdale entertained at dinner last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Field of Hollywood, who have recently come to California from Chicago. They are old friends of the Farlanders. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Field, Mr. and Mrs. George Bigelow of North Colorado and the host and hostess.

Mrs. Edward Brumby returned to her home at 336 West Wilson avenue Wednesday afternoon, after several weeks' rest and recuperation at Murietta Hot Springs.

Miss Carrie M. Noble and Miss Frances Jackson of 346 West Wilson avenue returned recently from a trip through the east. They visited Seattle, Vancouver, Victoria, Lake Louise, Lake Superior, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Montreal, Boston, New York, Kentucky, Oklahoma and many other eastern cities. While in New York they met Mrs. Mary Ryan and Miss Waite, principals in the Glendale schools, and visited in Kentucky, Mrs. Elizabeth Seland, formerly Miss Elizabeth Jackson of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. und of 1344 Broadway are planning a trip to San Francisco and will leave by boat Saturday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Smart of 110 Olive street are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Bertha Smart Iredale of Chicago. Mrs. Iredale is an accomplished musician and conducts a music studio in Chicago. She will visit here about a month.

DOPE PEDDLERS TO FEEL LASH IN ENGLAND

Public Protests Against Narcotics Becomes General

LONDON, Aug. 3—British judges hope soon to enforce the "cat o' nine tails" as an addition to terms of imprisonment to men found guilty of selling "dope' to girls.

The public outcry against the dope sellers has been further swelled by the description of the living room of one of these sellers recently sentenced.

Writing to the London Times, a king's councillor says:

"Picture the prisoner's room as it was described by the police!

"In it were phials of morphine, a bottle with traces of cocaine, an opium pipe, a pocketbook containing drugs and a "dope" price list, a revolver and a number of very indecent photographs.

"The worst of poisons, poisons which dethrone the reason and destroy self-control, firearms and obscene photographs! Can anyone imagine the fate of these girls, who, in their innocence, entered that arsenal of vice?"

This man was sentenced only to six months.

MISER'S HOARD IS SOUGHT IN OLD BUILDING

Valuables Buried During Civil War May Be Unearthed

RACINE, Wis., Aug. 3.—Lure of hidden treasure surround an old building on one of the principal streets here.

A miser's hoard of gold is buried there, according to pioneers.

The mystery, more than half a century old, may be solved when the Knights of Columbus raze the old structure preparatory to beginning construction of a new clubhouse.

Mrs. C. W. Tiege, mother of Charles Tiege, superintendent of city charities, whose family the old property was deeded, remembers the story.

"Some day the fortune will be found," she contends.

The old structure was built prior to the Civil war by a German baker. His name has been forgotten by Mrs. Tiege. The baker was so miserly, pioneers say, that his wife's face bore unmistakable signs of hunger. The wife was a gaunt, silent woman.

The baker prospered; fortune smiled upon him and it was said through his saving he had amassed a large fortune. Then the Civil war broke out.

Confederate armies routed the Union forces at Bull Run. Rumors of other catastrophes reached the north.

"Rebels are marching north, capturing and looting towns, torturing inhabitants to make them turn over their possessions," was one of the stories that spread through the north.

Fearing loss of his wealth, the old baker withdrew his savings, cashed all his securities and bonds and under cover of darkness buried the treasure somewhere within his house.

This much his wife knew; but he never revealed the hiding place to her, for fear she might divulge the secret if tortured by rebel or bandits.

Before Lee surrendered to Grant at Appomatook, the baker died. He tried to tell his wife the secret of the hidden treasure, but death interrupted.

The wife prospected. For months she dug around in the basement and finally followed her mate to the grave.

New owners of the property, refusing to place any credence in the story, prohibited digging in the basement. They feared digging would undermine the walls.

If the story is true the gold will be found when the foundation for the new Knights of Columbus clubhouse is built, officers of the organization say. Until then, they have announced, no one will be allowed to approach the property with shovel or spade.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

"THE greatest of faults," says Carlyle, "is to be conscious of none." No man who has made progress in the world has done so without making mistakes. Errors of judgment and faulty decisions are bound to occur. But progress and success come through learning the lessons that our mistakes teach us. Failure, on the other hand, comes through the repetition of one's errors.

S. W. STRAUS

To eliminate mistakes, as the result of the close study of one's personal problems, is efficiency. It is this quality that distinguishes the thrifty man from the man who is thriftless. The latter continues the mistakes of wasting money, time, energies and opportunities. The thrifty man learns in the school of experience that these things mean retrogression. While he makes his mistakes he is personally organized along such lines of efficiency that he is not likely to repeat them. His practices of thrift and self-denial have developed will-power and character. Therefore his mistakes become sources of strength. Instead of millstones about his neck he makes them stepping stones to greater accomplishments.

Do not bemoan your mistakes. If you are a young man or young woman standing today on the threshold of life do not imagine that you will go through the journey without displaying shortcomings. The question of your success or failure in life will not depend on whether you make mistakes. It will depend on your ability to take advantage of them, to avoid their repetition and utilize them as necessary lessons in the development of character and judgment.

PLAN PUBLIC PARK IN EVERGLADES

Conversion of Royal Palm Hammock Is Planned by Owner

FORT MYERS, Fla., Aug. 3.—the conversion of Royal Palm Hammock, in the heart of the Florida everglades, into a public park as planned by its new owner, Barron G. Collier, millionaire car advertising man of New York City, will be the snatching from the wilds of one of the most interesting uninhabited sections of that vast domain in Southwest Florida.

Royal Palm Hammock derives its name from the hundreds of stately royal palms which raise their heads in all directions throughout this hammock, to heights of over 100 feet. To those who have never seen a royal palm, explanation is made that they are always erect, unless a heavy wind has bent them slightly. From their roots to the top of the tree there is not a limb, not a knot to mar the smoothness of their surface covering. At the top, usually 10 to 15 small branches shoot out. Their growth is slow and each year of their life is marked with a small ring around the trunk.

Collier has stated that he plans to clear out some of the undergrowth in this hammock, but will leave the palms, in their grandeur, together with numbers of other trees, which will make this one of the real beauty spots of the world.

The exact location of Royal Palm Hammock is a short distance east of Marco Island, about 50 miles south of the city and the new highway under construction, from Tampa, the metropolis on the southwest coast, to the city of Miami, the gateway to Cuba, on the east coast, a distance of approximately 200 miles. The completion of this highway, in the near future, will make Royal Palm Hammock easily accessible.

Collier and associates have recently acquired over 100,000 acres in Southwestern Florida.

JAPANESE ACTOR ATTACKED BY HIS RACE

Hayakawa Charged With Misrepresenting Japan

TOKYO (By Mail). — Sessue Hayakawa is having a hot old time during his visit to his home country. He is getting both brickbats and bouquets, with the latter predominating.

Most of the Japanese movie fans are lavishing tributes upon him—but another group is panning him unmercifully. This outfit is all het up because its leaders say Hayakawa has produced American pictures in which the Japanese people are misrepresented.

Hayakawa is one of the famous moving picture stars of America. He is the only Japanese who has ever attained distinction in foreign filmdom. The Japanese are inordinate movie fans and throughout the empire Hayakawa's name is almost that of a hero.

And yet, when it was announced not long ago that Hayakawa was returning to his country for a three-months' visit, a small group in Tokyo, called the "Loyal Legion," got together and framed an "anti-Sessue demonstration."

The "Loyal Legion" complained that one of the Japanese screen star's pictures, "The Cheat," "misrepresented the Japanese people to the American public."

"Sessue ought to be ashamed of himself," read their resolutions. "We will tell him so. We will wave our flags at him."

Hayakawa's admirers held a bigger meeting. "Sessue has nothing to be ashamed of," they resolved. "We will tell him that. We will wave our flags at him, too. We will have more flags. Then he will feel good, and be glad that he returned to visit his country."

The flagmakers hope it will be a long and cruel war.

SPIN INTERESTED A WITNESS
A big man mounted the scales in a downtown drug store and dropped a penny in the slot. There was some wait and a clanking and rattling on the innards of the contraption, but the pointer finally came to a rest somewhere not far from the 300-mark. There was a witness to the ceremony, and, as the fat man contemplated the result, the voice of a wee, small boy piped up from behind him: "Say, mister, how many times did it go around?"—Kansas City Star.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

WHERE WAS TH E RED DOG?

Now that Frisk Squirrel was all waked up from his nap he was ready to spend the rest of the day in Louie Thomson's kitchen. He wanted to see why the flies couldn't go through the window pane, and what made the clock tick, and a lot of other interesting things. But Mrs. Thomson wouldn't let him. "Here, Louie," she laughed. "You take your rowdy friends and get along out of here. The morning's half gone, and nothing done."

So the little boy opened the screen door and tried to shoo Frisk and Tad Coon out of the room. Think they'd go? Not till he bribed Tad with something from the ice-box, and found a grain of wheat in the pocket of his coat for Frisk to nibble on. It tasted like more to Frisk. He tucked it away in the pocket he wears in his cheek, and begged for another one. He tucked that kernel into the other side. And he kept on begging till his face bulged out as if he had the mumps.

Of course that started the little boy laughing. And he laughed at something else besides. 'Cause when Frisk sat up and cocked his tail he wasn't a fluff-tail any more. He'd been wrapped up too tight while he got dry after his bath.

"Your fur's so squashed that you're just a little red rat," giggled Louie. "Let's see if those cow-licks ever will come out of you again." So he picked up the brush and took him out on the back steps in the sun, and brushed him from ears to tail and from tail to ears again, till his hair stood on end like the fuzz of a dandelion.

By the time he'd finished he began to wonder why the red dog hadn't come back. He whistled, but Pal didn't answer him. So he went to see if he was over at Tommy Peele's.

"That's queer," said Tad. "I wonder where Pal's gone. I wonder what Bobby Robin told him. I believe I'll see if he's in the barn."

"I doethnt like barnth," protested Frisk. "'Cauthe harnth hath wats in 'em. And——"

"And cellars have traps in 'em," Tad finished for him. "And there's no good place to sleep. And that's what you ought to be doing. We'll slip back to the Pond and sneak into our holes when nobody's looking. It'll be all quiet down there by this time in the morning."

And so it was. The Woods and Fields were still as still. Not a claw was astir. Even the birds had stopped singing their morning song, and were busy bug-catching—as busy as Tad had been in Louie's kitchen a half hour before. They had no eyes for any one else. So the two furry-foots climbed up the hickory tree and snuggled down in their own two beds. But they wouldn't have slept so soundly if they had known where the red dog had gone and what he learned when he got there.

IMPERIAL DISTRICT IRRIGATION BOND SALE BEGINS

$2,000,000 in Securities to Be Placed on the Market

With the danger of Colorado river floods within the Imperial valley permanently eliminated during the last few months, through the opening of new channels directly into the gulf of California, a syndicate of California investment bankers, headed by the First Securities company, with the Anglo-London-Paris company of San Francisco as associate, is today offering for subscription $2,000,000 Imperial irrigation district 6 per cent bonds.

The sale of these bonds will go far toward eliminating the difficulties faced by the Imperial valley producer, for, under the reconstructed plans of the Imperial valley irrigation district, the entire irrigation operation will, in the future, be carried on by the district itself. This means the voluntary elimination of the various mutual water companies which now receive water at wholesale and distribute it to their members at retail, at varying prices and under varying conditions.

Under the present plan, the mutual water companies will turn over their assets to the irrigation district itself, so that the irrigation system within the Imperial valley, both north and south of the line, may be operated under one head and at one cost—eliminating 15 separate overheads and 15 sets of regulations.

The proceeds of the bond sales now contemplated will be used not only to complete the consolidation of the systems, but also to extend the irrigation and drainage systems of the valley.

This is one of the most important financial projects that California has ever handled, and marks the greatest forward step in the development of the Imperial valley since the irrigation district itself was created and began to function.

The First Securities company, as manager of the financing syndicate, is today offering for subscription $2,000,000 Imperial valley irrigation district 6 per cent bonds.

These bonds, as offered, are a legal investment for savings funds, and are free not only of California state taxes, but of all federal income taxes except estate and inheritance taxes.

SIN-EATER

is a man who in some eastern countries such as the Balkans is believed to take upon himself for some small payment the sins of a deceased person by means of eating or drinking at the house of the dead. In the early days each city usually had its official sin-eater. A crust of bread and a bowl of ale were brought him and he ate sitting on a stool in front of the door. In the earlier form the sin-eater was taken into the death chamber, where food was taken from the breast of the corpse and handed him. After he had eaten, he was pelted and driven out. This custom not long ago existed in modified forms in England, Scotland and New York.

$45,000 WORTH OF REALTY SOLD IN ONE WEEK

J. E. Barney Finds Glendale Has Just Begun to Boom

J. E. Barney and his assistant Marvin Smith, of J. E. Barney, 131 North Brand boulevard, report business is good at their new location. They sold over $45,000 worth of real estate in the last week, over $65.000 in the last two weeks.

They sold F. Ellsworth Eskre of Phoenix, Ariz., a garage house at 724 North Isabel street, owned by Mrs. Mary Clarkson, price $2500.

To C. C. Kuver and Peter J. Alavado, 10 lots on Spazer street, North Glendale, for investment, price $4500.

To H. D. Clark, secretary and treasurer Union club, Los Angeles, 512 West Dorn, $6500. He will remodel and make his home here. It was owned by St. Clair Woods.

To David and Anna Elam, brother and sister, and their mother, a home at 1135 East Maple. Miss Elam is a teacher in Glendale high school. Mr. Elam is with the Glendale Daily Press. The former owner, Mr. A. E. Baron, has moved to a ranch; price, $5000.

Sold W. Adams a one-acre fruit farm on Cudahy boulevard, Huntington Park for $7500, and a home at 504 Myrtle street for $6500. Mr. Adams is one of seven men who are starting a hinge factory on San Fernando road.

Sold to Frank Rhodes a large seven-room house at 827 East Lomata street, $7000, owned by F. V. Dewhart and wife Mae.

Mr. Dewhart and wife bought for $15,000 the double duplex, 315, 315½, 317 and 317½ East Elk street.

Sold to W. A. Keyt, a beautiful $7500 home, 503 North Kenwood street, formerly owned by Carl Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Keyt will make this their home.

Sold to Miss Pettit of Pasadena, two lots on Elm street, North Glendale. Miss Pettit will build and make her home here.

The office has had a great many rentals of late and Mr. Barney expects when school opens, houses for rent will be scarce.

"I think Glendale has just begun its boom and there are just as good opportunities now as in the past," said Mr. Barney.

A Year Ago Today

From the Glendale Daily Press, August 3, 1921

Appointment of a new city manager, or the reappointment of City Manager Thomas W. Watson may be made by the city council tomorrow night, it was announced today following several sensational stories that appeared in Los Angeles newspapers to the effect that Mr. Watson had been dismissed. These stories were denied by both Mayor Spencer Robinson and Mr. Watson.

It has been announced that several Glendale cat fanciers will have their pets on exhibition at the San Fernando valley fair, to be held September 13 to 18. Dr. Libbie Ashcroft is expected to be among Glendalians having entries in the show.

A new business block will be erected on San Fernando road near Brand boulevard, is the announcement made following a purchase of property at that location by C. J. Orff and his daughter, Miss Corinne Orff, of 465 Milford street.

The young reformers were having a debate, and when they had agreed that the country was just about as corrupt as it could be, a grim-faced man arose.

"What you seem to want, friends, is a place where every one has to be good by law."

"That's it," agreed the reformers.

"Where smoking is not allowed and such a thing as drink is unknown. Where no one need worry about food and clothes. Where every one has to go to church, and every one keeps regular hours."

"Oh, to find such a place," said a soulful reformer.

"Easily found," replied the grim man. "I've just come out from doing a month in one."

Suburban Proper Advance Right SAYS EXPE

The Statistician Sees New Factor Upset Present Standards of

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., July 28, Babson, adviser of over seventeen thousand leading executives, has called another turn.

In a statement issued today he outlines c in the real estate field, and advises the purcl property before it is too late.

"The big movements in real estate usuall way," says Mr. Babson, "before anyone realiz on. Because they have seen land unusued people think it will always continue so. original holder seldom makes any profit f The value is so close to his nose that he does

"A fundamental change in real estate place. So far it has proceeded quietly withou Few people have realized it. The fact is moving to the country. A few wise heads the bargains in country homes and they ar up all the land they want for themselves an as they can carry for a speculation.

"My advice to those who want suburban buy at once. For the past decade or more, p crowding to the cities. Now, however, a re to the country is beginning, which promises est shifting in population since the institution Within the next ten or more years the build homes should rival the growth of the automo the movies, the phonograph or radio!

"In fact, these inventions make possibl movement. A few years ago country homes the rich or to those employed in the count such people could afford means of transport tomobiles have come within reach of the gr of people. They are increasing at the rate million a year. Ten years ago there were 1,0 automobiles in the United States. Today 10,000,000, which is an average of one car 10 people! They are bringing new and b opening up millions of acres of hitherto in The more cars purchased, the more families can have a suburban home, even though t must work in the city. Wage earners durin of prosperity spent their money for motor c period of prosperity they will buy country h

"The motion picture has put the local to with the city theater. The motor truck is or suburban dweller nearly the same freight cilities as has the city.

"Motor bus lines are covering routes wh be served by trolley cars. Automobiles a schoolhouses and the village to within a few country home. Chain stores are carrying to e the same efficient merchandising as the city Last, but not least, the radio, especially if de eral Squire's wired basis, gives to suburban city lectures and music.

"The reason for suburban expansion, howe the attraction of a country home. In the citi dwelling house space and high rents long ha discontent. For more than five years now have existed. Rebellion on the part of th reaching the point of explosion. Almost any would be attractive. Once the average city that with a few hundred dollars and a fiftv house of his own with all the land he needs, two to one he will move!

"The city no longer has a wall around it. the first breach, but the railroads opened strips along their lines radiating from the city the railroads followed the valleys and lowl not the best building locations. Between thes of land much more desirable for building, been inaccessible to the commuter because m of getting to the train. It is in these areas b road lines and within a radius of 15 or 20 mi which the motor car and good roads have the most spectacular development in new take place!

"If you are interested in real estate, the si action! It means that if you want to buy de land near any good city at present low price to go about it at once. In selecting such prope usually is to follow out the best residential where land begins to sell by the acre instead On the other hand, if you own city dwelling which cannot be converted to business uses, get rid of it the better. This does not apply t ings nor to property which will soon be in business section of the city expands. It doe city dwelling houses for which such extra now demanded. Remember that while the industry is well along, the readjustment in r has only begun.

"Some may ask why industry does not m try? Before many years have passed we pr a strong tendency in that direction. Many b carried on in the country far more efficiently This idea that all offices and factories must l popululation centers is simply a notion hande generations. In the old days, industry was city and the country was left for agriculture fore the age of modern transportation. Of continue true in the case of distributing house jobbers, merchants, etc., who group togeth their industry in a certain part of the city, buying.

"Manufacturers, however, find better l lower rents and better power in the country. not dispute the point with anyone that bus may tend toward the suburban sites. For t ever," concluded Mr. Babson, "the main m confined to the buying of country residences. planning eventually to own a country home at once, for every week you delay is likely to c

FAIRVIEW

Large Lots as Low as $550—$25 Cash and $10 and $15 per month

Five years from now there will be plenty of people who will point out what profits they could have made if they had bought in Fairview in 1922, but the man who will realize the profits is the man who has the vision to see now, what Fairview will be in 1927.

Purchasers who bought lots in a barley field from us just one year ago, have seen Fairview develop into a prosperous community of homes; have seen lots advance in value from $500 to $800; from $450 to $725.

Reviewing what has been done in one year, it is not hard to appreciate that lots in Fairview in five years or less will command from $1000 up.

Economical Claims of Brick Construction

There is a slight increase in initial cost over materials that require constant expenditures for preservation; but this is overcome in a few years by saving in insurance and upkeep, and the home is proof against the action of the elements.

HAWKEYES PLAN 99 PICNICS HERE

Ten Thousand Baskets of Lunch to Be Organized

It's a fact that there are really ninety-nine picnics on the boards at once when the Hawkeyes get together. Headquarters are opened for each county and there are ninety and nine, so there you are.

Judge Charles S. Crail and his committee are right busy men these summer days getting ready for some 60,000 Hawkeyes out of the possible 250,000 in the west.

All day, Saturday, August 12th, 1922, in Bixby park, Long Beach, will be staged the reunion that beats all the rest. In addition to Judge Crail are Col. Frank H. True, Captain Frank H. Nichols and Judge Fred H. Taft.

Planning ten thousand badges, a thousand gallons of hot coffee, calling for ten thousand basket dinners is their task. President Crail will preside and some Long Beach orator will voice a welcome. Prof. Ralph H. Lyman will lead the singing of Iowa and patriotic songs. Some noted speaker will talk on the Wright enforcement law. Governor, Hon. Wm. D. Stephens will tell of old days in Burlington, Iowa, when he was there. Ten thousand Iowans of Long Beach will welcome the visitors. It will be a great day for Hawkeyes and all should be there.

BREEDS OF SHEEP

Is there any difference between a Hampshire and a Shropshire sheep, a farmer in the Goodnoe Hills district asked R. T. Smith of the animal husbandry department of the State College of Washington, who replied as follows: "There are two distinct breeds. Shropshire ewes weigh about 150 pounds when mature, and Hampshire ewes weigh about 175 to 200 pounds. The Hampshires are also more leggy than the Shropshires, and grow more readily.

"The Hampshires are much preferred in the range country for use on crossbred long wool, fine wool ewes. The Shropshires are used on farms, but not extensively on the range.

"Hampshire sheep are distinguished from Shropshires by long, drooping ears covered with dark hair, black faces and Roman noses. The Shropshires are wooled down to the tip of the nose, but the wool is light brown in color, and the ears are covered with a short wool on the back."

THE MISLEADING TALE

Me and Bill Pearson are a-goin to fight
Behind the stable after school tonight.
He's bigger than me but I've got a new trick
That Henry Bemis says will make him sick.
And Henry said just look how David slew
Goliath, and he was a giant, too.

When anybody walks home every night
With your best girl you've simply got to fight,
So Henry Bemis said, or else you know,
You are a coward if you let him go.

But afterwards he said I must have strained
My muscles or else I was overtrained.
Anyhow he put beefsteak on my eyes,
And said I am a terror for my size,
But Bill was too big for me. So my face
Don't hurt as bad because it's no disgrace
To be licked, Henry said, if you're outclassed
In size. I think that fight will be my last,
For some time and I guess it's good enough
For me believing that Goliath stuff.

TUJUNGA MOORE CLUB BEING ORGANIZED

Tujunga Voters Wish to Form Own Club for His Support

TUJUNGA, Aug. 3.—A strictly local "Moore for Senator" club is being organized here now with Wilmot Parcher and John Wood starting the movement. Petitions were circulated some time ago for membership in the Glendale Moore club, but local voters felt that more good could be accomplished by the formation of a Tujunga organization.

Copies of Mr. Moore's platform and short histories of his life are in the hands of the club organizers for distribution and posters are being placed throughout the community.

Tujunga people seem to be generally in favor of Mr. Moore, and are glad to have a club formed for the purpose of promoting his candidacy here.

Arrangements have been made for speakers to be sent out from the Moore headquarters in Los Angeles to address the local club, and the first meeting will be held on August 18. Meetings will be held in other communities in the valley as follows: La Crescenta school house, August 4; La Canada school house, August 10; Verdugo Woodlands, August 11.

Call for Actors in Pageant

George Harris, director of the pageant for the Moon festival, has issued a call for participants and has given the following list of requirements:

Seventy-five to 100 people willing to spend from $3 to $7 for costumes, 200 or 300 people to march, musicians, actors, about ten days' labor and $100 for general expenses.

People willing to enter the processing and furnish their own costumes as well as professionals and others who will take part are requested to leave their names for George Harris at the postoffice or at the home extension office.

VERA GORDON FILM IS STUDY IN ARTISTRY

"Your Best Friend" Reveals Yiddish Actress in Subtle Rendition

One of the most artistic productions of the mother theme, "Your Best Friend," featuring Vera Gordon, held a large audience at the Glendale last night. It will be repeated tonight.

Vera Gordon is perhaps not so well-known here as she is in the east, where for years she was the leading feminine exponent of the Yiddish dramatic art.

Her rendition of the alien mother contrasts strongly with the flapperish mother and daughter of modern New York, leading to comparisons which are rather striking.

The artistry of Miss Gordon is shown in the film with all the strength of subdued suggestion which distinguished her work on the foreign language stage. It is a treat in the days of exaggerated gesticulation in filmland. She is subtle, poised, restrained and the mother throughout the evening.

Children whose wish is stronger than their cash, should be encouraged to be free guests of the management this afternoon. Mr. Howe believes every child should be permitted to see the film.

Weather Signs

are as follows: A red sunrise with lowering clouds later means rain; a morning fog usually melts away before noon; a deep blue sky means fair weather; a growing whiteness in the sky forecasts a storm; fogs assure settled weather as a rule; a gray, lowering sunset is a forerunner of rain.

OLD CALIFORNIA PLAY ATTRACTS ATTENTION

John Steven McGroarty's Drama Is Awaited With Interest

The greatest interest is being shown throghout the Southland in the forthcoming production of the new California drama by John Steven McGroarty, author of the Mission play. It will be given Monday night, at San Gabriel.

The fact that it is given to few men in this part of the world to be as universally loved and admired by people in all walks of life as John McGroarty, California's poet playwright, or to have such a host of warm friends, admirers and acquaintances, alone would insure a widespread interest in a new drama from his pen.

California has always been proud of its individuality and distinctiveness in all things, whether it be architecture, literature, music, painting or sculpture. It has always been the fond hope of the dreamers and the thinkers, who make this romantic land their home, to create for their beloved state an enduring monument in all the arts—each as distinctively Californian as the Franciscan missions are typical of California architecture.

Towards this realization no man can be said to have striven harder or more successfully than the author of the Mission play. He has contributed to the dramatic literature of the state not only that which is distinctively and purely Californian—but what means even more—he has created that which is enduring. Eleven years of consecutive presentation of the Mission play at San Gabriel proves this without fear of contradiction.

NEILAN'S LATEST IS BIG HIT AT THE T. D. & L.

"Fools First" Measures Up to Producer's Standard

The power of a woman's love is portrayed in a captivating manner in Marshall Neilan's "Fools First," the First National attraction which is now enjoying a highly successful engagement at the T. D. & L. Theatre. Claire Windsor, Richard Dix and Claude Gillingwater have the leading roles, assisted by Raymond Griffith, George Seigman, Helen Lynch, Shannon Day, George Dromgold, and Leo White.

Claire Windsor plays the part of Ann Whittaker, clerk in a store, who falls in love with Tommy Frazer, the part played by Richard Dix, but Tommy is unaware that he holds her affections. Tommy has been associated with a gang of crooks, but despite their efforts he has always remained honest. Came the day when he, too, committed a crime; and as he was being led away by the police he thought he could detect a smile on the face of Ann. It puzzled and angered him.

When he emerged from the penitentiary he met Ann, who told him that she also was a crook, and suggested that they rob a bank in which she was working. Through forged letters of recommendation she obtained a position for him in the bank, and when the funds were abnormally large hints that the time is ripe for the "haul." Tommy gets into the safe, steals a bundle containing the funds and leaves. But he finds that he cannot go through with it. As he turns to replace the money in the vault he is set upon by the gang and robbed of the "spoils." Then follows a series of adventurous complications which make this production one of the most interesting in years. Tommy finds that Ann is not dishonest; that the "plot" was merely a test of his honesty.

Two kinds of friction

It has been proved that as much as 20% of the power delivered to the driving wheels may be lost through friction, due to the use of an incorrect oil.

This friction may be of two kinds—the friction of metal on metal, due to the failure of the oil to preserve a lubricating film between the bearing surfaces, or the friction of oil on oil—the internal, molecular friction of the lubricant.

Too heavy an oil, or an oil lacking in "oiliness"—the quality that makes it cling to the bearings while at the same time offering a minimum of internal or fluid friction—constitutes a direct drain on the available horsepower of your motor.

The right body at all operating temperatures

Made from carefully selected crudes and scientifically refined by our patented high-vacuum process, Zerolene has great "oiliness." It clings to bearing surfaces, while offering in itself a minimum of frictional resistance to the engine power.

Zerolene maintains the right lubricating body under all conditions. As the engine gets hot, bearing clearances decrease. Analysis of Zerolene shows that the variations in its body, at the various engine temperatures, follow in close relation the decrease in bearing clearances.

Because of their "oiliness," stability and purity, Zerolene oils give perfect lubrication and help to develop the maximum power, speed and gasoline mileage of the car.
